

Conference Approves The Temple Project

Enthusiastic and Unanimous Approval of Temple Building in New York to House Church, Apartments and Business—Will Cost Over $4,000,000—Only $500,000 More Needed—A Business Investment.

Enthusiastic and unanimous endorsement of the new New York Temple project was the feature of the session of the New York Conference this morning. A presentation of the matter by Mr. Baldwin, a member of Calvary Church, East Orange, N. J., had been made a special order.

After a resolution had been adopted authorizing the sale of the Washingtonville Church property and the use of $5,000 of the proceeds by the church at Maybrook and the residue by the church at Middlehope, and the Conference had spent an hour in executive session, passing on the character and standing of the classes, Mr. Baldwin was introduced.

Men have opposed the Temple project, he said, because they did not approve of mixing business with religion. Business is the supplying of the wants of the people, and if preachers deal in only supplying wants after death they had better quit. The first clause in the Lord's Prayer is a request that an earthly want be supplied. The Temple is designed to supply a want. It will cost $4,000,000 in addition to gifts received and $500,000 is now all that is lacking. It asks now for loans at 5 per cent.

A Business Proposition.
The Temple will be a business proposition and also a church. It will be an apartment house that will give people a decent place to live. It stands in a center around which are eight or nine per cent interest and are still getting rich from the profits. It will house an apartment hotel, with restaurant, bath, etc. It will house a church for which the church will pay $1 a year rental. It will be surrounded, at a height of 725 feet, by a cross which will be lighted at night. As the silent policemen call attention to traffic rules, so will the cross, seen by 6,000,000 persons each day, be a reminder of Christianity and religion.

Methodism has not kept step with the growth of New York. Less than one-half of one per cent of the population of the city is within the Methodist fold. What is the reason for this lack of growth?

A voice from the audience—"The Jews."
No, said Mr. Baldwin, it is not the Jews—it is loss of religion. The Jews are losing their young people and losing their religion. The Catholics are losing their young people. There is something lacking somewhere, some little thing that will give the missing savor. Industrial plants are scrapped because the machinery is out of date and maybe there is something wrong with the machinery of the churches that is causing this loss of religion. Perhaps this uplifted, lighted cross will be the little thing that will add the savor that is lacking.

The total salaries of Methodist preachers in this Conference in Manhattan and the Bronx is about $110,000. The Temple will pay a net profit of $125,000 the first year. More than the aggregate of all your salaries. It will pay back the loans and clear the mortgages in 19 years and will then be paying a profit of $325,000 a year, a sum that will be used for Methodism in New York.

The Rev. Dr. Hartsock offered a resolution endorsing the plan and urging that it be supported.

Temple's Many Purposes.
The Rev. J. E. Cates, in supporting the resolution, referred to the new cathedral of another denomination that is to cost $15,000,000 and be merely a cathedral. In medieval days when the church was losing spiritual life, it built cathedrals. The Temple is a church and also a business that will supply revenue for the church.

After several brief addresses, all approving, the resolution was adopted.

The Rev. Dr. C. F. Reiser, who originated the Temple project, is thinking the Conference stated that 80 per cent of the funds had been furnished by men outside the Methodist Church and that Jews and Catholics had purchased bonds liberally.

Laymen Open Annual Session

Dr. Tipple Pleads for Sufficient Support of Drew Seminary—Dr. MacRossie Asks Laymen to Support Summer Schools.

The annual meeting of the Laymen's Association of the New York Conference began its morning session at the St. James M. E. Church at 9:30 o'clock, with H. Westlake Coons leading the devotional exercises.

Following the presentation of credentials the address of greeting was given by the president, Chester A. Smith.

At ten o'clock the important subject, "An Educated Ministry," was ably considered by Dr. Ezra S. Tipple, president of Drew Theological Seminary, and Dr. Allan MacRossie, educational director, Commission on Courses of Study.

Dr. Tipple put up a strong plea for the sufficient support of Drew Theological Seminary, especially if the laymen of the church wished to have well trained men presiding in their pulpits, men as efficient and up-to-date for Christianity and the spread of Christ's gospel as they require of men in less important walks of life; in other words, trained leaders of Christian thought and life.

Dr. Tipple was followed by Dr. Allan MacRossie, whose plea was for the support of the present educational facilities offered to the three-fourths of the ministerial students not able to attend seminaries. There are in this conference some 2,000 supply ministers and some 2,000 supply ministers, who are getting their education from courses of study in the correspondence school plan with big men from seminaries acting as examiners in a big brotherly capacity. It costs approximately $9 a man for this correspondence education.

Dr. MacRossie urged seminary education upon every man who could by any possible means secure it, and that the course-of-study plan be well supported for those who could not make the larger field of study. A summer school following out this plan will be carried on at Drew Seminary at Carmel this summer, and Dr. MacRossie, president of the seminary, spoke for that movement, stating that the cost of maintenance would be $1,000. He asked the laymen present to help underwrite half of the amount, and pledges were received.

The Prohibition Question.
The next topic on the program was "The Next Step," with Arthur J. Davis, state superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, as the speaker. Mr. Davis asked the Conference whether the Christian Church shall continue to stand for winning the fight against the forces of unrighteousness and support the prohibition law enforcement. If they so desire, will they pay the price not only in money but with real zeal for the movement? In closing Mr. Davis said:

The wet Metropolitan press has tried to convey the impression that the Anti-Saloon League is all ready to make trouble for Colonel Lincoln C. Andrews, yesterday appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of the Prohibition enforcement. This is a deliberate misrepresentation of the attitude of the League because the traditional policy of the Anti-Saloon League is to assume, in the case of every official until his conduct gives evidence to the contrary, that he will do his duty. Personally I have no reason to doubt that Colonel Andrews will give his best endeavor to the cause of prohibition enforcement. On the other hand it is proper to view with suspicion any bureaucratic shift, the effect of which is to centralize the control of prohibition enforcement in the department headed by America's best known distiller, Secretary Mellon of the Overholt Distilleries. It is scarcely fair to load down Colonel Andrews with the burden of the wet reputation of the head of his department, and the Anti-Saloon League wishes him well in the tremendous task of overcoming this handicap. It should further be borne in mind that what appears to be on the face of it an act of centralization in the Treasury Department is nevertheless in effect almost certain to be an act of decentralization.

The Federal prohibition commissioner must stand or fall upon the reputation which he establishes for himself in the performance of his specific duties, limited to the enforcement of the national prohibition law and the narcotic law. When he fails everyone knows who is to blame and when he succeeds everyone knows whom to praise. An assistant secretary of the treasury is almost sure to be just another de-

Motor Officers Made 14 Arrests Here Thursday

Motor Inspectors Van Bergen and Osterbo Pay Kingston a Visit Thursday and Round Up Fourteen Violators—One Failed to Appear and Warrant is Issued.

Motor Inspectors Van Bergen and Osterbo of the state department paid a visit to Kingston on Thursday and rounded up fourteen traffic violators. Some of the men arrested had two charges preferred against them, that of driving a car without having either their operator's license with them or the certificate of registration of the car.

Thirteen of those arrested faced Judge Robert G. Groves in police court this morning. Those who were arrested on two violations of the motor vehicle law were fined $2 for each offense, while those arrested for but one violation were fined $2 each.

One man, Lawrence Jordan of Albany avenue, arrested on two violations, did not appear when his name was called and Judge Groves issued a warrant for his arrest.

Of the thirteen who did appear, Morgan Coutant, who had been in the hospital all day, was discharged without a fine being imposed, and Peter Knauth, 18 years old, who was operating what he said was an Erie machine, which is neither an automobile or a motorcycle, but betwixt and between, had an owner's license, but no operating license. Owing to his youth Judge Groves discharged him with the warning not to operate the Erie until he had gone to the county clerk's office and obtained a license.

The others who paid fines were: Irwin Swat, $2.
Lloyd Davis, $2.
Sam Weinstein, $4.
Henry L. Winchell, $4.
N. A. Lyons, $4.
Harry Stone, $4.
Alfred Emerick, Wawarsing, $4.
John A. Schick, $2.
Ernest P. Jansen, $4.
Frank Soura, $2.
Anthony Di Paola, $2.

Junior Licenses For Motorists

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 3.—Governor Smith has approved the bill which permits boys and girls between 15 and 18 to operate automobiles anywhere in the state outside New York city. Under the old law no one under 18 was permitted to drive a car.

Get Them at Albany.

County Clerk John H. Saxe at noon received the following telegram from Charles A. Harnet, commissioner of the state bureau of motor vehicles, Albany: "You are not to issue junior operators' licenses. Applications must be made to Albany. Persons between the age of 16 and 18 are not permitted to drive without license. Forms being prepared."

Shepherd Bail Refused.

Chicago, April 3.—The defense in the William Nelson McClintock murder case met another defeat here today when Judge William V. Brothers tentatively refused to act on a motion for bail for William D. Shepherd, defendant, until he had conferred with Chief Justice Jacob Hopkins, who has twice refused the bail petition.

Bail Not to Prisoner.

At 10:30 o'clock Fred A. Victor gave a comprehensive and valuable report of the committee on the State of the Church which was adopted.

Arthur J. Baldwin of New York city spoke on the "Broadway Temple," giving practically the same plea in its behalf that he presented to the general conference.

Lay Electoral Conference.
At 11:20 a press was taken for the meeting of the Lay Electoral Conference, the Hon. Charles F. McClelland, chairman. The amendment to the constitution in the form of plans for Methodist Unification was unanimously adopted. The other amendment in favor of the admission of laymen to the annual conference was adopted by a vote of 64 to 12.

Returning to the session of the Laymen's Association, the following nominating committee to report in the afternoon was announced by President Chester A. Smith: B. Clark Sanford, Catskill; E. B. Schenck, Kingston; C. B. Dabbs, Newburgh; Everett H. Travis, Poughkeepsie; John C. Bohman, Lakeville; Senator McClelland and Carl F. Price.

A committee on finance and audit was also appointed after which the meeting adjourned.

Contributions of The Foreign Born To Kingston

From Earliest Days They Sought Realization of "Liberty Without License and Authority Without Despotism," Principal Cullen Tells Wiltyck Chapter, D. A. R.

The regular monthly meeting of Wiltyck Chapter, D. A. R., was held at the chapter house on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Van Hovenberg, the regent, presiding. Following the routine business it was announced that the historic pageant of "Kenmore," given in the chapel of the First Reformed Church last month under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church and Wiltyck Chapter, D. A. R., netted each organization $43.25. Members of Wiltyck Chapter, through voluntary contributions, reported their share raised to the sum of $50 which will be forwarded to the Kenmore Association to be used by them in the restoring of this home of the sister of George Washington.

The afternoon was devoted to the consideration of "Our Foreign Born Population," and Principal P. H. Cullen, of School No. 3, gave an exceedingly interesting paper on "Contributions of the Foreign Born to the Progress of Kingston."

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Chidsey and Miss Ednah C. Smith.

Principal Cullen said in part:

To all unbiased students of history it is manifest that God guides the affairs of men. This is indeed evident in the beginnings and growth of our country. Through the long ages of the development of civilization in Europe, while the peoples evolved from tribes to nations, there lay unknown across the western seas a continent peopled only by savage beasts and still more savage men, awaiting the destined hour when God should require it for the progress of His people, and when at last the time was ripe, He chose fitting instruments to carry out His great purpose.

Of all the groups who crossed the western sea to find new homes in that new land, the pioneers from Holland had a rightful claim for position in the van. History shows that the men of the mountains and the men of the few low lands cherish most dearly an intense love of liberty, and these men and women of the Netherlands who were first to establish homes here, had moved from the lowlands of Europe to our fair mountains with that sturdy spirit unquenchable. This with the love of God in their hearts and a high belief in justice in their minds, made them fit to help build a commonwealth based on free institutions and moral worth. These were the first of the foreign born to make their high contribution to our city.

As Plymouth had some who were not Pilgrims and still would live and die with them, so had Kingston some few others of the same type. Among these stands that sturdy son of England, Thomas Chambers, a leader among the people.

The desire of these early settlers for the right of self government even in local affairs was long in fulfillment. Under the Dutch rule after a time they were given independent jurisdiction in minor affairs under officers appointed by the Director General.

Peter Stuyvesant gave them a charter in 1661, giving the town Wiltyck; but it was not until the English gained control of the colony that they had the right to choose their own officers. When Thomas Dongan granted a patent in 1687 to the trustees of the freeholders of Kingston giving them the right of local self-government by officers chosen by themselves, they began to realize their ideals. This great benefit was conferred by a man born abroad and was a distinct contribution to the well-being of the town.

When the dark days of the Revolution came and Kingston took a stand, almost to a man, on the side of liberty, a perusal of that immortal list of men who signed the agreement to maintain constitutional rights, reveals the names of some who no doubt were foreign born but nevertheless were preparing to become like their fellow subjects of Dutch blood—Americans. Under the new republic the town grew slowly, and there was little incentive for the coming of strangers until the building of the Delaware and Hudson Canal furnished a demand for labor. This brought the Germans and the Irish in great numbers.

The Germans added as their contribution a willingness to work, saving habits, respect for law, the establishment of homes which, however small, were garden spots of beauty, and a firm religious faith. The Irish contributed a passionate love of liberty, a desire to own a home and a willingness to work at the most menial task to get it, high courage, quick wit, religion, and an extraordinary ability in leadership.

About the same time came the Jews with their initiative and ability in business, their unwillingness to be any man's industrial slave, their great racial pride, loyalty to their religion, and love of learning.

Let us not forget the other racial strains which go to make our city. The English, used to long years of freedom and constitutional government won at bitter cost and prized as no other race prized them; the Poles, after years of warfare as the outcast of western civilization in eastern Europe, coming to this new land to be welded into the heirs of all the ages—Americans; the Italian, bearing his

Used Car 'Change Gets Experienced Man As Manager

Exchange Open for Business Saturday—Automobile to be Given Away, Without Conditions, on April 11—Success of Exchanges Elsewhere.

F. H. Burt of Easton, Pa., has been engaged as manager of the Kingston Dealers Used Car Exchange, Inc., which on April first took possession of the "Doc" Smith Garage on Clinton avenue. Mr. Burt is thoroughly experienced in the used car trade, having been in charge of the Easton used car exchange, and is thoroughly conversant with the Noyes plan which is being installed by the local dealers.

As manager of the Exchange Mr. Burt will be actively in charge of the business and will be responsible directly to the board of directors which is composed of the members of the Exchange. In securing Mr. Burt as local manager the directors feel that they have brought to Kingston a man who is thoroughly capable of taking charge of the Exchange and rendering the best of service to all concerned. He has been connected with the automobile business practically all of his life and is familiar with the selling end.

Organized now as a selling company to make profits through the selling of used cars, the Exchange needs a man who is competent to appraise cars in a fair and disinterested manner and Mr. Burt's long experience qualifies him for that job. The object of the Exchange is to give a fair price to the owner of a used car and resell this car to a satisfied customer. In order to do this all cars will be reconditioned and placed in A-1 shape before being offered for sale.

That Exchanges run under the Noyes plan are cooperative and run by the dealers not for profit but to dispose of used cars taken in exchange is shown by a report from the New Haven Exchange which is the largest now operating under the Noyes plan. At New Haven 975 cars were resold in seven months of business without having one dissatisfied customer and on the 975 cars sold the Exchange lost $12,000 which was proportioned among the dealer-members pro rata according to the business which each transacted through the Exchange. After absorbing this big loss the dealers found that their individual share was much less than it had cost when they were each operating a second hand department and the cost of handling used cars had been materially reduced. This enables the giving of more satisfactory prices for used cars to sellers, according to the condition the cars are in, and also provides a responsible place for purchasers of used cars to do business. In addition it allows the agents for new cars to devote all of their attention to selling new cars and giving better service.

The Exchange will be open for business Saturday, and on April 11 at 8 o'clock in the evening an Overland touring car will be given away by the Exchange. The public is invited to visit the show rooms on Clinton avenue and inspect the cars which are offered for sale and to secure a ticket which will entitle them to participate in the awarding of the automobile. It is not necessary to purchase in order to participate and everyone who visits the Exchange will receive a card.

Arrest Followed An Auto Crash

John Berardi of 178 East Chester street was arrested Thursday by Policeman Jacob H. Aley on a charge of driving a car without having his operator's license with him. The arrest followed a collision between the Chevrolet coupe driven by Berardi and a Ford truck owned by Louis Schwartz of 93 Adel street, and driven by Herbert Wolf. The collision was at the intersection of Hasbrouck avenue and Garden street, and both cars were damaged.

This morning Berardi was arraigned before Judge Robert G. Groves in police court on a charge of driving without a license and pleaded guilty. He was fined $5, which he paid.

McTigue Ready in Six Weeks.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, April 3.—Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, declared today that he would be ready to defend his title within six weeks against the best challenger available. He named Tom Gibbons, Gene Tunney, Paul Bernbach and Jack Delaney as preferred opponents.

Love of music and the memories of Italy's glorious past in art, literature and history, surely all these have added to the sum total of our citizenship.

The older Americans—those who come down in direct descent from the founders—surely owe to those founders something more than pride of ancestry. They, too, should be willing to sacrifice the refinements of their fathers should not have been in vain. The high ideals for which their fathers strove should be the torch passed on to them by which the guidance of those who come later should be lighted, that free and orderly government under law should still continue, and that these later arrivals should come to believe in the American ideal which teaches "liberty without license and authority without despotism."

New T. B. Hospital Site Offered Ulster County

Second Ward Residents Protest to Board of Supervisors Against Enlargement of Hospital on Present Site, Although State Has Approved Plans—County Will Appeal Skillypot Award.

The board of supervisors were in special session Thursday evening at the supervisors' room in the court house for nearly an hour and a half, most of the time being taken up in hearing objections to building a new tuberculosis hospital near its present site.

Virgil B. Van Wageningen of the Second ward and Supervisor Van Etten were the principal opponents, not only personally but for the property owners in the section.

William W. Van Keuren offered a free deed for twenty acres on Glen street, in the Golden Hill section, for a site for the proposed county tuberculosis hospital.

Judge Fowler, president of the board of managers, was called upon and spoke of what had been done and as to what the situation was now.

Supervisor Edwin Young of the board of managers and of the committee on tuberculosis hospital also spoke.

Each speaker was in favor of a modern hospital but the opposition was to the location and great expense entailed in carrying out the plans.

After all the talk Supervisor McDermott suggested a motion that Judge Fowler, Mr. Van Wageningen, Mr. Van Keuren and the tuberculosis committee investigate the Van Keuren offer and if satisfactory ascertain from the state board of health if it is acceptable to it; also to investigate other lands offered. Later a resolution to that effect which had been drawn was offered by Supervisor McDermott and adopted.

A basket of roses was on the desk of Dillon B. Humphrey, the newly appointed supervisor for the town of Wawarsing, when he took his seat.

Chairman Davis presided and Clerk DeWitt reported 32 had answered the roll call. Supervisor Van Etten moved that the privilege of the floor be extended Virgil B. Van Wageningen and W. W. Van Keuren, at the proper time.

Mr. Van Wageningen on invitation of the chairman took the floor and said he understood a proposition of some kind was coming up in connection with the erection of a new Tuberculosis Hospital on its present site. If there was, he wished to enter a protest for himself and for residents of the Second ward.

County Attorney John W. Eckert stated that for about six years the hospital question had been before the board with the result that $1,500 had been spent for plans that were approved by the state health department. That the board had decided to build a new hospital and suggested that if Mr. Van Wageningen had anything to say to enlighten the board this would be a good time.

Protests Enlarging T. B. Camp.

Mr. Van Wageningen said that he did not appear as an attorney but as an old citizen. It could not be possible that it was being seriously considered to build a Tuberculosis Hospital in the backyard of a personal side he understood there would be expended from $250,000 to $300,000. It was a question of taxation and the taxpayers were interested, and he said he favored retrenchment and was against high taxation. He spoke of the steady increase in taxes in city and county. President Coolidge had demanded economy and Governor Smith bravely demanded retrenchment and economy.

There was no demand today for the enlargement and extension of the tuberculosis camp as planned. He would favor it if necessary. In speaking for the people of the Second ward and the people of the city of Kingston, he said that the Second ward people are home owners and home builders. It is a ward that has increased most, where the most thrift, most happiness had developed. He cited the growth of Albany avenue, the Boulevard and other streets and because of the tuberculosis camp location Flatbush avenue had shown a lack of development. The new hospital and camp would be a barrier to that end of the city.

He granted that it was a necessity and laudable to have a new hospital. There is a man here who will give free a deed for 20 acres in this city and there are two other good sites, less than two miles from the city, all better sites—which he could furnish. He said the expense for constructing a sewer at the present camp would be high and one was needed as the system now is poor. There was protest from citizens of the Second ward which could be ten times greater.

High Cost of Sewer.

Judge James Jenkins was asked as to his views in the matter and said he did not appear as a corporation counsel, but individually and had no knowledge of the matter coming up at this time. He suggested that before any action is taken in view of the high cost of a sewer that the matter be referred to a committee to investigate and report.

Never Heard Objections Before.

Supervisor Young of Marlborough stated that as a member of the committee on Tuberculosis Hospital and a member of the board of managers, this was the first time he knew there was any objection. There has been considerable money spent for plans. Never during the past five or six years that the efforts toward increased facilities have been under way had there been any intimation that the present location of the hospital was objectionable. He was sorry that objection had not been made before so much time had been spent in getting out the plans and having them approved by the state department of health. There are 21 patients at the camp and a waiting list. New plans call for an expenditure of $100,000 of which the state pays $50,000. He said that rather than inflict any injury on the people of the Second ward he would favor another satisfactory site. He had no desire to insist upon any community or any one something which was objectionable. He thought objections should have been made before the final crowning of the labors of the committee were in sight.

State Insists on Adequate Hospital.

County Attorney Eckert stated there was no definite action to be taken at this meeting. The state department of health had for six years insisted that an adequate hospital be erected. The state has the power to demand that the condition be improved. It had ruled that the hospital must be in the city and accessible.

Surprised at Opposition.

County Judge Fowler said that it is very unfortunate that this matter came up now and had been discussed. In behalf of the board of managers he was surprised to learn of the opposition. In reply to Mr. Van Wageningen he would say that the hospital is not in the Second ward but blocks from it, it being in the Third ward. He asked Mr. Van Wageningen how far his home was from the hospital and the latter said about 3,000 feet which Judge Fowler said was over half a mile. The hospital, Judge Fowler said, was in a sparsely settled section of the city. There was crying need for a new hospital.

Conditions Cramped.

While Mr. Van Keuren had offered a site in the Twelfth ward, residents there undoubtedly would object. Until now no objection had been made to present site. He favored quick action. The board would be satisfied with any satisfactory site. The members of the committee are getting no pay and was not in favor of putting the thing over. As to out of town patients, there had been a few, but the county was paid for their care and did not lose anything. The county had invested $20,000. He spoke of the cramped condition of the shacks at the camp that were heated by small stoves. Did not want the location to be but did not want the matter prolonged as he wished conditions improved quickly.

Lot Useless for Building.

Jacob J. Rice stated he owned a large lot near the camp and a prospective purchaser from whom he asked $50 for the lot replied that it was not worth anything as property for building because of the tuberculosis camp.

Favors Another Site.

Supervisor Van Etten said that the people in the ward protested, that the cesspool overflows and has been a nuisance, that the Industrial Home is close by and the children from the Home go about the place, that the cost of a sewer through the rocks would be $15 a foot, according to estimates made, which the property owners could not afford to pay with the regular tax which is high. He was not opposed to a new hospital but favored another site.

Complaints of Trespassers.

Dr. Duval W. Mahon, who resides near the camp, was not opposed to a new hospital, but said the present site was objectionable; that patients disregarded the rules and had been forced to complain to the local board of health and the state board of health as to preventing patients from trespassing on his property. That one patient because of his infirmity had been ordered to leave away. Conditions are not as they should be.

Refer Propositions to Committee.

Supervisor McDermott said that if $100,000 was expended this year for the proposed tuberculosis hospital on the present site and had to be abandoned owing to the stoppage of building operations in the section during the next few years, it seemed to him that the better way would be to secure another site. He offered a verbal motion that the matter of a new site be referred back to the committee to secure a site if possible, other than the one on which the Diagram Showing Amplifier Alone, Wired to Plug by Single Lead; Arrangement Suggested for Adding Resistance Coupling to Any Circuit.

Resistance-coupled audio amplification is meeting with popular favor wherever it has been tried. It reproduces over the entire scale without distortion of any kind. Its only drawback is that three stages are necessary to produce the volume of two stages of transformer-coupled amplification. The diagram shows how a resistance-coupled amplifier can be added to any set.

The coupling resistors, R1, of the A. F. amplifier are 100,000-ohm resistances. This value remains the same for all tubes (practically), as do the .005 mfd. coupling-isolating condensers, C1. The grid leaks, R2, R3 and R4 have respective values of 1 megohm, 1/2 megohm and 1/4 megohm.

The diagram shows the amplifier alone, wired to a plug by a single lead, which arrangement is suggested for adding resistance coupling to any circuit. Practically no knowledge whatever of the receiving circuit is necessary. Wire X should be tapped on 45 volts of B battery.

After tuning in a station on telephone receivers, the phones should be removed and the amplifier plugged into the jack. If no signals are heard, the single wire leading to the plug should be transferred to the other plug terminal. When signals are being amplified, X should be varied over the B battery taps until the response is the strongest without impairing quality.

Transformers Can Be Used. The amplifier should always be plugged into the lowest stage jack on the receiver proper—the jack that ordinarily gives the weakest response. Many neodynes are so arranged that at least one stage of transformercoupled audio frequency amplification must be employed. This being the case, no more than two stages of resistance coupling should be added. One extra step generally will suffice. Quality probably will not suffer through the single stage of transformer-coupled intensification. Properly designed and operated, one transformer-coupled stage should be additively perfect.

If the receiver to which you contemplate the addition of resistance coupling is a five-tube set, and four tubes are used (lighted) on the lowest jack, it is an indication that one transformer-coupled stage is being employed.

High Voltage Is Necessary. When in-putting from the detector tube, from 45 to 60 volts should be applied to the plate of this bulb—compensating as usual for the voltage drop across the coupling resistor in the plate circuit.

No more than 90 volts should be impressed on the r. f. circuit while 135 volts or more should be used on the a. f. amplifier. This last will function satisfactorily on 90 volts, though higher amplification is quite naturally secured on the increased voltage.

When in-putting from a transformer-coupled stage, the normal detector voltage should be used. If only two resistance-coupled tubes are used, the leak values should be 1/2 and 1/4 megohm respectively.

If a single stage is employed the grid leak should be a 50,000 ohm resistance. The UV-201A, the C-301A and the DeForest DV-2 tubes will function satisfactorily in this amplifier.

Splendid Loop Set Is Critical for Tuning

By J. W. MAYFIELD

The accompanying hookup shows a splendid loop set with which I have heard New York, Schenectady, Atlanta, Kansas City and Davenport. So many radiofans claim loops are not efficient unless used with one or two steps of radio frequency.

This set is very critical for tuning, but it is highly efficient. As will be noted the tuning is accomplished with a variocoupler with the rotor used for the tickler. A .0005 mfd. condenser—vernier preferred—is shunted across the loop. The vernier rheostat is also of great value.

Owing to extreme regeneration the set will hiss until filament is properly arranged. The grid condenser may be either .00025 mfd. with a 1/2-megohm leak or .0005 mfd. and a 1-megohm leak. Both were tried out with equal success. The diagram is self explanatory.—Radio Digest.

Easy Way to Take Taps Off in Winding Coils

The easiest way taps may be taken off is by winding on a certain number of turns and twisting the wire together at the point so as to make a five or six-inch loop and a certain number of turns again wound on the tube and the next tap made in a similar manner. Or a neater looking job is made by winding on a certain number of turns before making a tap and then allow six inches for a tap; push a hole in the tube and push the wire through it; push another hole in the tube about a quarter inch from the other and close to the last turn of wire and allow six inches for a tap and join the two six-inch ends on the inside of the tube.

Use Care When You Are Constructing New Set

Many radio fans will rush the construction of some new set that they have seen or heard. In the rushing any kind of connections are made, with a consequence of having the leads long or twisted in all directions.

Usually this results in the failure of the set operating. Though it is not necessary to build a new set on a panel and all ready for putting in a cabinet, still, as much care should be taken with a board layout as with a panel layout, especially when the set is some departure from a standard.

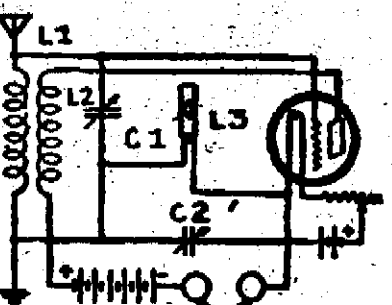

Dog Best Protection

The dog is the best protection against thieves and the stairs of the house are the best place to keep him. said Col. E. H. Richardson, noted dog trainer of England, recently, during London's reign of second-story robberies.

Single-Tube Set That Is Super-Regenerative

This is a new single-tube receiving circuit, known as the Nacireman. It was developed during a series of experiments with a large number of receiving circuits. This new circuit is not suitable for wired radio, because of its tendency to re-radiate, but it is probably the last word in a simplified single-tube set for receiving news and music from the present broadcasting stations.

The circuit is described in the interests of amateurs and the public who may wish to listen to the programs now in the air. The set is super-regenerative. It requires a minimum investment in parts. Practically every amateur already has everything necessary to try out the circuit. It will be noted that all resistances, grid leaks and grid condensers have been eliminated and no filter circuits are required. Any amateur can connect up one of these sets in an hour or two and the results will surprise the most hardened radiofan.

New Single-Tube Set of Interest to Amateurs.

Almost any metallic structure which may be picking up radio waves may be used as an aerial. Connection to a bed spring, wire window screen, steam radiator or fire escape is often all that is necessary. A short overhead aerial, a length of wire strung across the room, concealed behind the picture molding or under the carpet, will also serve.

Tuning is accomplished by rotating the movable coil of the variocoupler or variocoupler until the tube oscillates. Then adjust condenser No. 1 until the station desired is heard, finally adjusting condenser No. 2 to the frequency of oscillation which brings in clear speech and music. A second fine adjustment all around will increase the volume and some regulation may be secured with the filament rheostat.

- 1 variometer or variocoupler. L1 is the rotor winding. L2 is the stationary winding.
- 2 32-plate condenser, preferably with verniers (C1 and C2).
- 1 100-turn oil or paper-core coil or its equivalent (L2).
- 1 tube, WD-11, UV-401A, or other hard tube.
- 1 tube socket.
- 1 filament rheostat (R).
- 1 A battery, 1 1/2 to 2-volt for WD-11 tube; 6-volt for other tubes.
- 1 B battery, 45 to 60 volts for WD-11; 45 to 135 volts for other tubes.
- 1 pair phones.—Radio Digest.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

A. MARY GRAHAM-BONNER

THE SPRING

"The spring, the spring, the beautiful spring," called the birds as they went North for the summer.

The Children.

They traveled so easily without having to carry any boxes or bags. They didn't even have to carry toothbrushes, for they never needed such things—having no teeth!

When they got North they built their nests and didn't have to bother about moving all their possessions, as they went into their new homes in trees and bushes.

They were delighted when people put suet on their trees and bread-crumbs and water about, for that helped them when the marketing supplies were low the first of the season.

Before long the robins would be looking after their little ones, feeding them, watching them grow. How they did love their little ones.

This was one of the lovely parts of the springtime.

The children in the little green cottage would sell lilacs to people passing by in automobiles and would earn money for the Fourth of July and summer picnics and all sorts of little things they wanted.

That was something they could do on springtime afternoons and on Saturdays.

Later the buttercups would come out and would char with the long green restful grass.

The wild honeysuckle would whisper sweet secrets to the woods. The wild strawberry blossoms would promise delicious treats to come when the strawberries came in place of the blossoms.

The iris flowers in the gardens would open, the sweet ferns of the hills, the sun shine, all a part of the springtime and the early summer.

The rain would come down in clean, glistening, beautiful showers.

It would spatter on the dog and the cat who lived in the old gray brick house. The dog did not like other cats, and the cat did not like other dogs but these two were the best of friends, eating out of the same saucer. They would lie out of doors until the rain drove them in.

The ferns would lift up their little, young heads and drink of the soft, warm rain. All this was a part of the springtime.

The children would have supper on the back piazza and they would use the pretty old-fashioned table cover with the birds embroidered in the corners.

The days would become warmer and the Persian lilacs would come out, a little after the other lilac trees, and the whole air would be perfumed with their sweetness.

Then the little birds would sing as though their throats would burst with the joy of the springtime.

Golden, white, brown, purple butterflies would soon appear.

Dolly who had once had a golden butterfly come and sit in her lap would be watching all the springtime glory.

Her favorite time of the year was the springtime.

Allie would be gazing at the Persian lilacs—her favorites. To her they were like long, heavy blossom plumes, and she loved the exquisite lemon-colored tulips, too, so aristocratic and grand in their shape, and the red ones—old friends of hers—so very bright.

Cows would come out of their barns and would enjoy the air and the streams and the grass.

But they would not pay much attention to special bushes and scenes such as the children would do.

The children would speak of their favorite hills and fields by name. But they would all enjoy the warmth and the sunshine. The roosters would crow their springtime delight and the hens would cackle and soon there would be running around little yellow chicks, all soft and new and pretty.

Everything would be perfect. Even the showers would be lovely.

It would all be a part of the spring and everyone felt the beauty of the loveliness of springtime.

It was wonderful to be alive, to breathe the sweet, sweet air, to see the soft, soft colors, to hear the songs of birds, to speak of the new flowers daily appearing, the new birds daily arriving.

Yes, it was very wonderful. It was all a part of the wonder and the glory and the beauty of the spring.

All Wanted

"Come, come," said a kind old gentleman to a little boy who was crying. "What is the matter?"

"I've been playing truant, and just remembered it's Saturday."

TASTY FOODS

Rice is such a wholesome food that different ways of serving it are always appreciated.

Imperial Rice.

Put three cups of milk into a double boiler, add one-fourth cup of salt and one-half cup of well-washed rice. Cook until the milk is all absorbed, then add one-third of a box of gelatin soaked in cold water and dissolved over heat. When the mixture is cold and beginning to thicken, add one-half cup of powdered sugar, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and the same of orange juice, and a little of the grated rind, and lastly fold in one cupful of cream whipped stiff. Turn into a well-lined mold and set away in a cool place.

Oysters à la Richelieu.—Put one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan and when well melted add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of paprika, two tablespoonfuls of chopped celery and cook five minutes, then add two dozen large oysters free from liquor. Cover and when plump add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and the same of orange juice, then serve.

Lentils Catalana.—Use one pint of lentils; one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two of flour, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, a teaspoonful of onion juice and a grating of nutmeg. Put the milk over the fire to heat, add the butter and flour well mixed to the milk, cook until smooth and thick, then add the beaten yolk of an egg, cook a moment, take from the fire, add the seasonings, then mix with the fish and sauce and set aside to cool. When cold form into cutlets, dip into egg and crumbs and fry until well browned.

Apricot Flats.—Take one-fourth pint of leftover apricots, four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, the whites of two eggs. Press the pulp of the apricots through a fine sieve. Beat the whites of the eggs very stiff, add the sugar, add the fruit pulp, a tablespoonful at a time and beat constantly until stiff enough to hold its shape. Set aside to chill. Fill individual serving dishes one-third full of cream and drop a tablespoonful of the apricot flat on top of each.

WEST SAUGERTIES.

West Saugerties, April 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Atwater Volk have gone housekeeping in Pakenburg.

Mrs. Margaret Lane of Kiskatom is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Fred Mott, and will visit her brothers while here.

Junior Endeavor Society had a party last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Little Becker and son, Lester, of Bloomingdale, N. J., were guests at the home of Amos Snyder last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton Rogers of Verona, N. J., spent Sunday with the family of J. H. Snyder.

Mrs. Charles J. Hommel spent a few days last week with her son, John, and wife in Schenectady.

The Junior C. E. Society met with the Juniors of Blue Mountain on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Pelletier, who has been in her summer home here for some time, returned to her home in New Jersey last week.

Charles Fall, who spent the last two weeks at the home of Fred Cordes, left on Monday for his home in New York City.

Milton Hommel and family, who have been living in Saugerties for the last two years, are now occupying their home here.

Miss Carrie of Shady has been visiting friends here.

John Carr and John Myer have returned to work in Platte Clove at the police recreation camp.

PALENTOWN.

Paleontown, April 2.—Kenneth Barley and family of Samosville and Elmer Barringer and family spent Sunday at the Feltman home.

S. E. Krum, wife and daughter of Maybrook, spent Saturday night and Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. Barringer.

Those who attended school regularly for the month of March are as follows: Burton Barringer, Elbert Leason, Clarence Brown, Herbert Edinger and Stanley Kenter.

Virgil Barringer is employed by Jeanie Shurtler at Samosville for a few days.

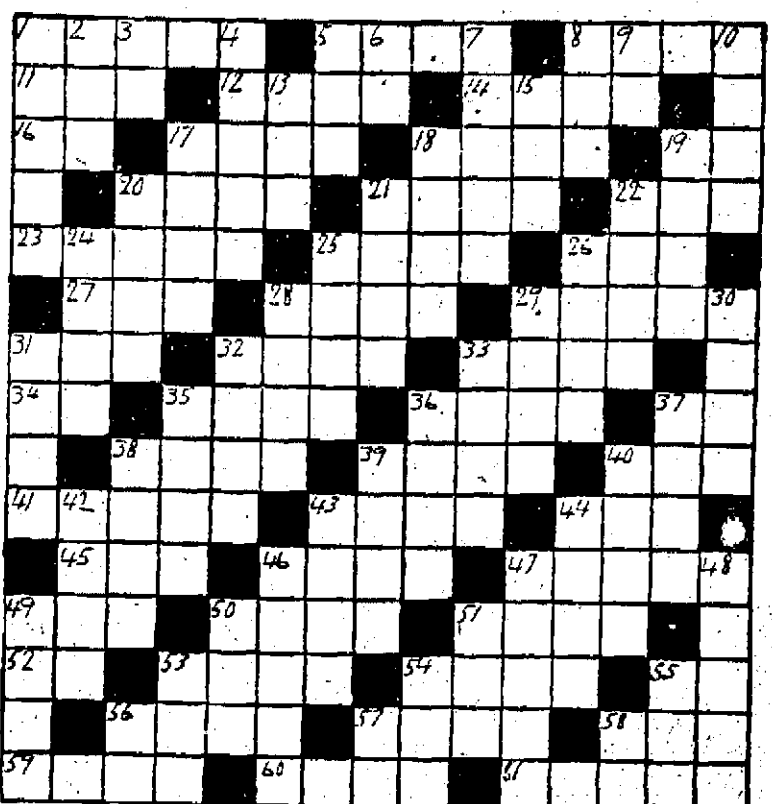

Mrs. E. Barringer called on Mrs. V. Barringer Monday afternoon.

James O. Paken spent Saturday evening with Norman and John Bell.

Ala Barringer and son, Alvin, and Lewis Barringer of Samosville Heights passed through this place on Saturday on their way home from Kerhonkson.

Ministers Adopt Group Insurance

New York Conference Makes Available $1,000 Policies With Metropolitan Insurance Company for Applicants Not Superannuated. Quickly Raises Conference Share of Premium.

The New York Conference opened Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with prayer by the Rev. J. W. Robinson of New York, pastor of St. Mark's Church. After the reading and approval of the Journal of the morning proceedings the special orders of the day, the report of the committee on group insurance, was taken up. The report was presented by the Rev. Dr. Fields Hermance, chairman of the committee.

The committee reported a contract with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for $1,000 policies, available to all applicants not superannuated, at a fee to be determined when the applications are all in. The usual group insurance is contemplated, with the individuals paying a flat $7.20 a year each and Conference paying the remainder of the premium. The committee recommended that $1,200 be raised as the Conference share for putting the plan in operation, beginning April 15. Leading laymen have indicated that they will take care of any additional fund required.

There was a lively debate over where the money was coming from, whether the plan meant another assessment on the churches and whether the assessment, if any, will be 1/2 of one per cent or 1/3 of one per cent. Dr. Hermance and Dr. C. F. Reiserer, rather cautiously intimated that wealthy laymen would put up the money and the Rev. Mr. Cates wanted to know what would happen when these laymen got tired. The Rev. Mr. Howard wanted to know why the insured could not pay the whole premiums and not go to their churches begging for one thing more. The answer was that this would not be group insurance under the law.

The Rev. J. W. Robinson of St. Mark's Church, wanted to know if the one-half of one per cent now contributed by preachers to Conference claimants was to be diverted to insurance and if this is true will it give any more protection and will it cost any more?

The Rev. Thomas Bond approved the insurance but opposed the diverting of one-half of one per cent from the claimant's fund. This diverting, he said, would deprive the aged and needy, who are not insured and cannot be insured, of $1,000 to $1,100 a year now derived from the one-half of one per cent.

The Rev. Dr. Tipton contended that the question was not one of philanthropy but of fraternity. The Conference was proposing group insurance, to be paid for. There are men who do not take out insurance because of neglect or inability. Group insurance would bring them in. Settle method of payment later, but take out the insurance now. A way will be found to meet future premiums.

After detailed lessons in the art of selling insurance had been given at great length the previous question was ordered and the report and recommendation adopted without any negative votes being cast.

Dr. C. F. Reiserer mounted the platform and proceeded to raise the $1,200 by calling for eight men to give $50 each. He got them in less than two minutes, got ten $50 pledges. Dr. Tipton taking two $25 pledges. The next call was for $25 subscriptions and 12 were procured in three minutes. Next $10 pledges were called for and they tumbled in. 41 in number, in rapid order. The next call was for $5 pledges, and these came in solid ranks, followed by $1 pledges, until enough had been raised when the game was called off for the reason that the amount required had been raised and $300 additional, the total pledges amounting to $1,500 to meet a $1,200 requirement.

Dr. Reiserer is not noisy or tearful as a money raiser, but in a smooth and witty way usually gets there. After announcements the Conference proper adjourned for the day.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, April 2.—Woodstock Reformed Church, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, pastor.—Services for April 2: Sunday school at 10 a. m. Worship at 11 a. m.; sermon by the pastor. Evening worship will consist of a service in union with the congregations of the Methodist and Lutheran Churches. This will be the first of the union Holy Week services of the three churches, which will be held every night of the week, ending with Friday evening in the Reformed Church at 7:30. The Rev. Henry Oberholtzer will preach the first evening.

His Position Assured

A true man never frets about his place in the world, but just slides into it by the gravitation of his nature and swings there just as easily as a star.—Edwin H. Chapin.

Today We Celebrate

ANNE ASKEW.

Anne Askew was the daughter of Sir William Askew of Kelsey, in Lincolnshire, and was born in 1529. Her elder sister, being engaged to Mr. Kyne, died before the marriage, and Anne was forced to keep her sister's engagement, because her father did not wish to lose a connection of pecuniary advantage.

Although educated in the Roman Catholic faith, Anne declared herself converted to the principles advocated by the reformers, which so enraged her husband that he drove her from his house.

She went to London and gained the ear of the queen, Catherine Parr, but her husband brought charges against her, which were laid before the king, Henry VIII. Anne was seized and taken before a board which examined her as to her faith. After a month in custody, she was released on bail, but almost immediately seized again and brought before the king's council at Greenwich, finally being taken to the Tower, where, as it was suspected she had friends at court, she was asked to betray them. She endured the rack in silence, refusing to betray her friends, which so incensed the chancellor of the empire, Wicksheff, that he threw off his gown and exercised the office of executioner. She was sentenced to be burned at the stake and went to her death unfalteringly at Smithfield in July, 1546.

LORD WORCESTER, PROPHET OF INVENTIONS.

There died in England 258 years ago today a man who was the first to vision a host of modern inventions, the man was Lord Worcester. This Marquis made a model of a steam engine, and in a remarkable book he described a hundred possible inventions, among them a semaphore telegraph, a watch that would never require winding, an explosive projectile that would sink any ship—and a ship that would resist any projectile, a rapid-fire cannon that would shoot six shells a minute, a heavier-than-air flying machine, a calculating machine for adding and subtracting, a pistol that could be fired 12 times without reloading, and a host of other things then undreamed of, but many of which are now common places. The Marquis possessed a wonderful imagination, but he lacked the mechanical genius to put his ideas into effect. It is a pity that he cannot return to earth now and see in operation scores of the machines and applicances of which he was the first to dream.

THE "PONY EXPRESS."

The pioneer pony express between the Missouri river and the Pacific coast was established 85 years ago today. The pony express was part of a mail line between New York and San Francisco. Between St. Joseph, Mo., the western terminus of the railway and Sacramento, Calif., the distance was traversed by horsemen mounted on swift and durable ponies. Each of the riders traveled sixty miles and then turned over his mail bags to another rider. The weight carried was not to exceed ten pounds and the charge was $5 gold for each 1/2 of an ounce. Thus a letter weighing an ounce would cost $20 to carry it to its destination. By the aid of these pony carriers the distance between New York and San Francisco was covered in fourteen days—a truly remarkable performance, considering the vast distance and the character of the country covered by the intrepid riders.

It was generally agreed that they earned well their salary of $1,200 per month. The pony express lasted two years, being abandoned when the telegraph line across the continent was completed.

SAMSONVILLE.

Samsonville, April 2.—John Althuser, who has been spending some time visiting his sister, Mrs. Eliza Shuter, has returned to his home in Saugerties.

Horace and Albert Myers made a business trip to Kingston on Thursday last.

Mrs. Warren C. Edgar, who visited relative at Olive Bridge and Samsonville has returned to her home at New Hamburg.

Albert, Daisy and Marie Myers called on Mrs. M. M. Harkness at West Shokan on Saturday and was treated to some of her birthday cake, also apples of her own picking and saving over winter.

Miss Mabel Satterlee returned on Sunday from spending the week end at her home at Mt. Tremper.

Mrs. Bevier returned on Saturday from spending a few days at West Shokan with Mrs. M. M. Harkness.

Mrs. F. N. Davis, who was all, is able to go out again.

Sunday school was very well attended on Sunday. The superintendent wishes to see a large attendance on April 5 as it is the first Sunday of the new quarter.

Some of the congregation are planning on attending the M. E. Conference this week at the Clinton Avenue Church, Kingston.

Your Easter Neckties are here The Man's Shop, Morris Hynes.

Talented Singers For the Holy City

An event of much musical interest will be the rendition of Gail's beautiful cantata, "The Holy City," by the choir of the Roundout Presbyterian Church under the direction of Miss Virginia Los Kamp, on Easter Sunday, April 12, at the 4:30 o'clock vesper service.

The soprano soloist will be Miss Beatrice Dyke of New York city. Miss Virginia Los Kamp will be the solo contralto; Harold Brigham, solo baritone; Earle Cium, solo tenor. Miss Dyke is attracting much attention in musical circles in New York in concert and church work. She is the daughter of a Methodist minister, born in Canada, and of Welsh descent. Endowed by nature with a voice of rare purity and beauty, she sang at the age of four without accompaniment in a large auditorium. Musical critics then predicted for her a future which today is being fulfilled in the full, rich soprano voice which has developed Miss Dyke will sing also at the morning service. Harry P. Dodge will be at the organ.

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, April 2.—The Stone Ridge Hotel was destroyed by fire at about 2:30 o'clock on Tuesday morning. The hotel was one of the oldest land marks in the village.

Church services were conducted by Ernest Palen of Marbletown at the Reformed Church the past Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Garrison entertained with a card party at their home on Wednesday evening. Progressive pinocle was played. The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Service, Mr. and Mrs. William Webber, Mr. and Mrs. Don Gillispie, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Barley, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cornish, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Ross K. Osterhoudt, Mrs. Etta Osterhoudt, Meritt Crispell, Roy Webber, Granville Lockwood, Percy Schoonmaker, Miss Janet Davis, Miss Carrie Hasbrouck, of Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Beach of High Falls. Delicious refreshments were served, and a delightful time was enjoyed by every one.

A play was given in the hall the past Thursday evening by High Falls talent.

THINKS HIS BRIDE IS POOR BARGAIN SO HE DROPS OUT

Thomas Didn't Like Her Cooking, Her Kisses or Her Conversation.

Chicago.—"My husband's leaving. He says he thinks I'm a poor bargain. He doesn't like my cooking, doesn't like my kisses. He doesn't like my conversation. In fact, he says I'm not worth anything about me."

Mrs. Nellie Thomas, who gave an address in Canal street, bride of one who stood before Judge Morgan of the Court of Domestic Relations and who bit her tears. She was pretty, her voice was sweet, and she didn't look incapable.

"I'm really quite nice," the little bride said. "I didn't take domestic science in school, but I can cook ordinary things, and—well—before we were married—the two weeks I knew him—he seemed to think my kisses

"You Must Arrest Him."

Conversation were all right. I don't see why a husband should go off and leave me."

Couldn't Help Her.

"You look like a nice little lady," Judge Morgan said. "But I can't issue a warrant for your husband. He's only been away from home a couple of days, and he has paid all your bills."

"But, Judge, you must arrest him. I've got two policemen holding him down at one of the banks where he went to draw out his money," the bride pleaded. "I've just married him, and I like him, and I don't want him to go away. Maybe he'd like me better in another week if I could make him come back."

"The only thing I can issue a warrant for is nonsupport," the judge said, "and as yet your husband isn't guilty of that. But I'll tell you what to do. Go down to the bank and try and persuade your husband to come up and talk it over with me. I'll see if I can get him to go back to you."

The bride said she'd try, and left for the bank, where two policemen were holding her husband pending issuance of the warrant—that could not, under the law, be issued.

Magyar Pianist Claims Descent From Columbus

Neutra, Hungary.—Rudolf Columbus, a piano player employed at a local restaurant bar, claims to be a direct descendant of Christopher Columbus.

Rudolf's father in 1910 read in a Vienna paper that the heirs of the great explorer were called upon by the Spanish government to make known any claims upon certain estates left by Christopher.

Convinced from the traditions of his family that he was a direct lineal descendant, he began to trace the family tree. This required much money, however, and searching of official records in Portugal, Spain and Austria-Hungary, and he died without accomplishing his purpose.

Rudolf has now announced that he will continue where his father left off, and will lay claim to the fortunes of the house of Columbus-Veragua in Spain.

First Aid for Lovers

Hutchinson, Kan.—Dr. H. L. Gleckler, pastor of the First Methodist church, has established a sort of first aid station for the young folks of his church.

Each young man has been asked to file, in confidence, a questionnaire giving the description of the kind of girl he would like to marry. Each young woman files a similar questionnaire. Young folks answering the descriptions are listed.

Pioneer Memorial

A new national monument created in 1923 is known as Pipe Spring. It consists of an old stone fort and spring of pure water in the desert region of Arizona and serves as a memorial to early pioneer life.

Slays Wounded Brother After He Shot Himself

Leicester, England.—An extraordinary tragedy, reviving the question of justification in the taking of life under special circumstances, occurred in the vicarage of Hungerton, Leicestershire.

The vicar, Rev. William Bettison, after celebrating communion, returned to his study, from which shortly came the sound of a shot. The vicar's sister, Miss Bettison, who, with her brother and a housekeeper were the only occupants of the vicarage, went to the study and found her brother lying on the floor. A sporting rifle was beside him, and there was a wound in his head.

Miss Bettison went to the post office and telephoned a doctor who lived four miles distant. She then returned to the vicarage and re-entered the study, refusing to permit anyone else to come in.

A little later another shot was heard inside the study and Miss Bettison came out. "I asked him if he would live, and he did not reply," she said. "I saw he was dying in agony, so I shot him to put him out of his pain."

Miss Bettison was arrested. Later, after an examination, she was declared insane and taken to an asylum.

GIRL FOUND DEAD BESIDE HER VIOLIN

Charms With Music Before Tragedy Ends Life.

New York.—While Helen Quintin played the violin in her furnished room on the top floor at No. 122 West Seventy-eighth street, other lodgers gathered in the hall and listened. They agreed that Helen, who was twenty-two, possessed great talent. It was unfortunate that she should have to work for a living as stenographer in the offices of a biscuit company. Still, she had been in the city only four months, and perhaps her opportunity would come in time.

Helen's playing ceased. The hallway audience waited a while and dispersed after agreeing there was a great future in store for her.

Next morning Allie Crutcher, the maid, was almost overcome by gas when she opened the door of Miss Quintin's room. The maid called Mrs. Mary Hickey, proprietress, who summoned others. They found Helen dead on her bed, her violin at her side. Gas was pouring from a tube disconnected from a small stove. How it became disconnected is not known.

Fate Reformed Criminal on Return to Home

Minneapolis.—A man who, as a confessed criminal and an undesirable, left Minneapolis 32 years ago by order of the police, recently returned, a convert to Christianity and a leader in welfare and criminal rehabilitation work. He is John Callahan, superintendent of Hadley Rescue Hall, New York, and chaplain of the Tombs prison.

Driven from this city in its infant days as a convict, "too crooked to tend bar" and as a confessed thief, Callahan, on his return, found Minneapolis paying homage to him in almost unprecedented manner. He passed one week here, and was swamped with visits and messages from Minneapolis' leading men and women.

Callahan spoke before many of the leading local civic, business and church clubs in addition to innumerable other gatherings.

"Faith in the Bible," Callahan told his audience, "made me good and kept me good."

He still carries the same little copy of the New Testament given him the night of his conversion.

Old Man, Angered by Argument, Drowns Baby

Vienna.—After an argument over a sum equivalent to $7, Carl Ziedler, a pensioner, aged seventy-three, took his landlord's sixteen-months-old daughter to a bridge over the Danube, flung the baby to her death in the river and then gave himself up to the police. Investigation of Ziedler's record showed that he had once been condemned to death, the sentence being commuted to 25 years imprisonment, which he served. On another occasion he was given a short sentence for manslaughter.

Asleep; Pulls Tooth

Gravesend, Cal.—F. N. Jackson, auctioneer, had a dream recently in the course of which he played dentist. During the night he imagined that a rat was caught between his upper and lower jaws while he was cracking it. After a strenuous pull he managed to remove it. When he awoke he discovered he had pulled out a large molar which had been aching.

Truck Runs Wild

Boston.—Ludgerman Walter Givan was seriously injured when fire ladder truck No. 1 became unmanageable, demolished a parked automobile and crashed through the plate glass window of a luncheonette. The rear steering gear of the motor truck snapped, causing the big fire apparatus to run wild.

TRADE MARK REG
By Junius

A hick town is a place where you can address a stranger without being shot in self defense.

"I wish to complain," said the bride haughtily, "about the flour you sold me. It was tough."

"Tough, madam?"
"Yes, tough. I made a pie with it, and my husband could hardly cut it."

Maybe Columbus was merely looking for some new uncrowned golf course.

"Well I'm stumped," said the tree as it fell before the blows of the woodcutter's axe.

In the good old days he won a bride by applying stone to her head instead of her finger.

Some people live fifty or sixty years with tight shoes always hurting their feet.

About the only time we hear of some stores and places of business is when they catch fire or the sheriff sells them out.

"What would you like young man?" asked the store keeper. "Some candy?"

"Yes," responded the youngster.
"But I suppose I'd better get what ma told me to."

Living In Hopes.

The joyous feeling I never had,
But one I've often sought
Is to learn that I have in the bank
More money than I thought.

A judge gave a man four days for being a "dumb bell." Some well-known folks may soon become fugitives of justice.

A movie actress has been divorced from two men, neither of whom understood her, she says. An interpreter should go with her the next time.

If the Treasury Department really wants to make silver dollars popular, it should insist on their meeting the people half way.

A policeman may stop a few minutes but he can't arrest the flight of time.

The man who made a fortune on hair-nets must have sensed something in the hair.

A bride is all right when she's well groomed.

It doesn't cost so much to live but it costs a good deal to keep up appearances.

Tonellitis and appendicitis are bad enough, but they are not as bad as cauliflower ears.

Married folk have an advantage at Christmas. Two can give as cheaply as one.

Every household has a way and means committee. The man presumed to furnish the means and the woman ways of spending it.

"Would you like to take a nice long walk?" she asked.

"Why, I'd love to," replied the young man caller joyously.

"Well, don't let me detain you."

"LIVE YER" ORCHESTRA
DELIGHTS T-B PATIENTS

The patients and staff of "The Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital" were the grateful recipients of an entertainment Tuesday evening, given by the Misses Katharine Stelle, Anna Hernon, Mary Abernathy, Ruth Say-der, Martha Gold, Anna Shields, Rose Weisberg, and Robertta Avery, which they put across as only "Live Yers" could.

Besides string eleven musical selections, which were a happy blending of instruments and girlish voices, a play entitled Betty's Butler was staged, and every boy present is wondering which of the girls was; the man in the plot; and also, how so much material could be memorized in addition to their high school studies.

At the finish we heard their say, they would like to do it again, and we certainly hope they will.

Signed:
Patients Welfare Committee of Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital.

WORLD READS, AND ASKS "WHAT'S NEXT?"

How time and events verify the adage that truth is, indeed, stranger than fiction!

We travel under the seas and high above the clouds. We talk through the air and send pictures via space.
Things that would have sent anyone who proposed them years ago to death for witchcraft are the commonplace of everyday life, familiar to every boy and girl, observes the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Two men with only a leg between them commit a burglary. A locomotive kills a huge eagle. A dog with a wooden leg goes through a fire with only the loss of the leg. The tones of a harmonica bring memory back to a wandering mind that had lost its identity. A thief promises to give back $100,000 of $500,000 he stole. A woman's car plunges 150 feet and she lives. A horse hurts an opera singer on the stage. And a man who built a $7,000,000 business in twenty years gives it to his employees.

These are only the oddities of a moment, the flashes of fancy on the screen of life's daily moving picture in the United States. 'Tis a strange world, my masters. And it's all in the day's news.

Corn Production of Country Falling Off

Corn production in the United States is not keeping pace with the annual increase in population, according to figures released by the United States Department of Agriculture.
Total crop production has increased 13 per cent during the last twelve years, but production per capita has decreased about 5 per cent, figures
the Agricultural Review.

The mass of crop production in 1924,
as measured by an index number 1-118 per cent of the average for the five-year period of 1910-14, and in 1925, the figure was 110 per cent. The index of crop production per capita in 1924 is 95 per cent of the average for the five-year period, and in 1925 the index figure was 84 per cent.

There was a decrease of about one fifth of 1 per cent in acreage of crop from 1923 to 1924, but production in this period increased 1 per cent. The trend of crop production per capita has been lagging since about 1915 with the exception of 1920, the department says.

English as She's Spoken

The third grade in the local public schools was having spelling. The pupils pronounce the word, spell it and use it in a sentence. One of the words in the lesson on this particu-

called on John to pronounce the word, spell it and use it in a sentence. He pronounced it and spelled it correctly, but this is the sentence he gave: "Our

Time-Saving Device

A rubber sponge, kept wet by running water, is a new time-saving invention for cleaning automobiles, says Popular Science Monthly. A rubber tubing is fastened to the sponge through a hollow handle and the other end of the tubing is attached to a faucet or garden hose. A small stream of water is sufficient to keep the sponge moist.

Something Worth While

"Do you know that that wretched puppy of yours has broken through the fence and destroyed my dahlias?"
"Well, there's nothing very remarkable about that. If your dahlias had broken through the fence and destroyed my puppy, the matter would be worth discussing."

An Impossibility

Jones—How is your young cousin, the doctor, getting on with his practice?
Smith—Very slowly. The whole family have been trying to help him out;
but, of course, we can't be ill all the time.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

American Trucks Popular

One reason why American trucks are popular in South Africa is because the tread is 56 inches—the universal wheel track for animal-drawn vehicles.
The trucks produced in other coun-

Vast Desert Stretch

The boundaries of the Great American desert are vague. The outer limits are the Rockies and the continuing ranges in New Mexico and Texas on the east; the Sierra Nevadas and Cascade ranges on the west. The north and south limits are British Columbia and the Mexican boundary. Only a part of this area is actually arid waste land, comprising about 530,000 square miles.

Early Japanese Telephone

The first practical use of the telephone in Japan was made by the police department at Osaka (now the second largest city of the empire) shortly after the first telephones were brought to Japan in the latter part of 1877. There circuits were constructed as long as 30 miles and as many as ten instruments were connected in series on a single iron wire circuit.

Holy Week at Holy Cross

Holy Week, which is kept in commemoration of the Saviour Christ's death and sacrifice, opens with the solemnities of Palm Sunday, so called because of Christ's triumphant entry into Jerusalem, when He was hailed as king, and flowers and palm branches were strewn in His way. Palm Sunday is misunderstood by many. It is not in any sense a festival occasion, for the Gospel for the day is the recitation of the Passion: the betrayal, trial and condemnation, mockery, procession to Calvary, crucifixion and death of the Christ. The ceremony of the blessing and distribution of palms is kept rather to remind men of the transience of the earthly glory, the dangers of popularity, and frailty of human nature.

The appropriate solemnities of Palm Sunday will be observed at the Church of the Holy Cross at 10:30 a. m., when the blessing and distribution of palms and solemn procession will take place. There will be no sermon at the high Mass which will follow.

In the afternoon, at 4 o'clock, Theodore DuBois' "Seven Last Words of Christ from the Cross" will be sung. The Misses Josephine Helmoortel and Edith Mayer, and Herman LaTour and Harry Clearwater will be the soloists in the magnificent musical work.

Every evening during Holy Week there will be devotions and a mission sermon. Up to Thursday the daily Mass will be at 7:30 a. m. On Maundy Thursday, the institution of the Last Supper will be observed by a high Mass and procession of the Blessed Sacrament to the Altar of Repose at 9:30 a. m. Good Friday besides the Mass of the Pre-Sanctified at 7:30 a. m. the three hours will be preached from noon until 3 p. m. There will be a service for children each day in Holy Week at 4 p. m.

AN AGNES STREET FROCK.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

A lavish use of color is by no means restricted to sports or evening clothes. Agnes, who seems more than partial to a brilliant royal blue, has introduced it on this navy street frock, the result being something rather bright in the spring sunshine.

Inverted pleats which reveal a brighter color beneath, have been done many times before, yet always bring with them something of a surprise. It has also become something of a fashion to border one's frocks, or at least place the trimming, low particularly when it is brightly colored.

At a recent fashion show, two charming printed chiffons were shown, both the same pattern, but with coloring reversed, one being black on white, and the other white on black. Both gowns were deeply bordered in chiffon—one a brilliant fuchsia, the other royal blue.

Send 10c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date spring and summer 1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates and containing 400 designs of ladies' dresses and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle artist (illustration 20 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS.

Hallmark.

Hallmark, such as it is, is the mark of the fashion designer. It is the mark of the designer's personality, of his taste, of his knowledge of the latest trends of the fashion world. It is the mark of the designer's ability to create a new and original design, to anticipate the needs of the fashion-conscious woman, and to create a design that is both beautiful and practical.

In 1910, when Mr. Walter Pater, a famous English writer, said that the fashion of the day was "the fashion of the day," he was referring to the fashion of the day, which was the fashion of the day. He was referring to the fashion of the day, which was the fashion of the day. He was referring to the fashion of the day, which was the fashion of the day.

MIRA, SECOND LARGEST KNOWN STAR, MEASURED

Through Observations at Mt. Wilson Scientist Finds Body Has Diameter of 230,000,000 Miles.

Washington.—Measurements at the Mount Wilson observatory of the Carnegie Institution have established that Mira, the remarkable variable star discovered by David Fabricius in 1596 in the constellation Ophiuchus, is the second largest known star, thereby displacing the noted Betelgeuse for that honor.

With an angular diameter of about 250,000,000 miles, it is exceeded only by Antares, chief star of the constellation Scorpio, with a diameter of 400,000,000 miles. It is larger by about 25 per cent than Betelgeuse in the constellation Orion, which was measured for the first time about four years ago.

Appearing but a speck in the sky to the naked eye, the measurements of Mira were made by Dr. Francis E. Pease with the 20-foot Michelson interferometer attached to the observatory's 100-inch telescope, the same with which the first measurements of Betelgeuse were obtained.

Announcement of the measurement was made by the Carnegie Institution on the basis of advice from Mount Wilson. "The results indicate," the announcement says, "an angular diameter for Mira of about six one-hundredths of a second of arc, a value about 25 per cent larger than Betelgeuse. The most probable value of the distance is 165 light years. Assuming this distance, the diameter of the star is 230,000,000 miles.

"The star varies greatly in light through a period of about eleven months, its brightness changing as much as 200-fold in that interval. The measurements of the star's diameter were made when the star was near its recent maximum.

"The name Mira, or 'The Wonderful,' was given to the star soon after the discovery of its remarkable variations of light by Fabricius in 1596. It is the most noted example of a class of variable stars of similar type, of which there are about 150 known. They are deep red in color and are doubtless all stars of immense size, low temperature and exceedingly low density.

"As a class these stars are moving very rapidly in the sky, some of them having velocities of more than 100 miles a second toward or away from the earth."

Unlucky Carthaginian

Sophonisba, a Carthaginian princess, was born under an unlucky star. She was betrothed to Masinissa, but was compelled to marry Syphax. Masinissa defeated Syphax and wed her, but the Romans made him give her up.

"Hand and Seal"

Ancient oriental rulers used thumb impressions on legal documents; hence the expression, "Here I set my hand and seal." Incidentally this practice led into the modern-day fingerprint identification system.

Indians Look Askance

at "Dragon" Sovereign
Calcutta.—Reports from England that the government has under consideration turning out golden sovereigns again has aroused much interest among the natives, who for many years have always been eager to pay a premium for certain of the gold pieces, which they used for personal adornment.

What the Indians are principally concerned about, however, is whether the sovereigns are to have the same designs as formerly.

In prewar times there were two kinds of sovereigns—one with King George's profile on the obverse and St. George killing the dragon on the reverse, and the other with the royal standard instead of St. George.

The coins bearing the dragon were not in favor among the Indians, who avoided them on every occasion and would not accept them on any account.

The dragon coins were in disfavor also among the Chinese, and the prejudice was so great at one time in eastern trading circles that they were virtually barred from business in many parts of the Orient.

Bandits Strip Boys, Take

Girl Companion to Dance

Kansas City, Mo.—Holding up two youths and a girl on their way to a high school fraternity party, three bandits kidnaped their victims.

After stripping the boys of everything but their shirts, underclothing and shoes, the bandits asked the girl where they could drop her, and at her direction took her to the party. The boys were Ted L. Pearson, eighteen years old, and Jack Storm, also eighteen.

The party was being given by the Tau Delta Phi fraternity of Westport high school. Young Pearson and Miss Lulu Harrison are seniors at the school and young Storm a former student. It was an open-house affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Whirter, whose two sons, Gene and Alfred Whirter, are students at the high school.

Child Suicide in Japan

Tokyo.—A marked increase in child suicide in Japan is revealed by the psychological bureau of the department of education. In the last ten years 2,316 children have taken their own lives and for the year just ended there were 427.

Miscue on Busses

Beauty at Least Had

Her Interest Aroused

They were dancing lightly and he held her tightly in his manly arms. He closed his eyes for a time and danced here and there in ecstasy. She looked up into his face and suddenly his eyes opened. The music stopped.

"Come, let's go out on the porch," he muttered thickly. He stole a glance at his partner. Never had he seen so ravishing a beauty. He could resist no longer. He took her in his arms.

"Oh, darling, I love you so. Say you will be mine." She looked again into his eyes.

"I'm not rich like Java Brown, and I haven't a car, or house, or collar like him, but I do love you and want you terribly."

Two soft, snow-white arms reached around his neck, and two ruby lips whispered in his ear: "Where is this man Brown?"—Boston Beacon.

Ancient English Custom

The term "Trial of the Pyx" is applied in Great Britain to the official inquiry annually made to determine the weight and fineness of the standard coins issued from the mint during the preceding year. It is so called from the "pyx," that is, the box or chest in which are preserved the specimen gold and silver coins of the realm. The first trial is said to have been ordered by Henry II (1154-1189). The earlier tests occurred at irregular intervals, but since the passage of the coinage act in 1820, the examination has been annually made at Goldsmiths' hall, by a jury of goldsmiths presided over by the clerk's remembrancer.—Kansas City Star.

Have Faith in Time

Thousands once wrote this wise line: "Wait, my faith is large in time." Well, might it be. If we wait faithfully, time will bring good results. If we have shared and repented, time will remove the consequences of our sin. If some great sorrow has come to us, time will heal the wound. If we are misunderstood, time will show of what sort we are. Time is the great healer. Time brings results. Time has done so much that it may be trusted to do much more. Have faith in time.

Pickwick Not Entirely

Creation of Dickens

Among the great humorous characters of fiction, which include such world-famous creations as Mr. Pickwick, Dominie Sampson, and Falstaff, there stands a grocer sportsman whose acquaintance many of the present generation have never made, except by name. Mr. Jorrocks "of St. Botolph Lane and Great Cornam Street" was created by Robert Smith Surtees, who died 60 years ago.

Not liking his profession of the law, Surtees took to editing a sporting paper, and later to writing sporting novels, by far the best known of which is the famous "Handier Cross." He introduced John Jorrocks to the public in a volume called "Jorrocks's Jaunts and Jollities, being the hunting, shooting, racing, driving, sailing, eating, eccentric, and extravagant exploits of that renowned sporting citizen, Mr. John Jorrocks."

The success of Jorrocks led other publishers to look for similar material, and we find Charles Dickens confessing that a proposal was made to him to write about a certain Nimrod club, "whose members were to go out shooting, fishing, and so forth, and get themselves into difficulties through their want of dexterity."

The book which Dickens wrote was entitled "The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club," and it is unlikely that it would have been written had not Surtees made such a success with his immortal Jorrocks, the Dickens of the hunting field.—London Answers.

Balderson, Pa.—Thirteen-year-old Frank Grankowsky lost his life while playing "Collins-in-the-cave." The boy was caught under a heavy fall of rock and dirt in an abandoned mine to which he had led some companions on an "exploration" trip. The companions escaped and summoned aid. Rescuers dug for several hours before the crushed body was recovered.

Sunlight and Moonlight

How much brighter is the sun than the moon? Actually, an infinite number of times, for the moon's light, like that of the earth, is only reflected, while the sun's is direct. But an interesting comparison of the moon's reflected and the sun's actual light is the following: In order to equal the light of the sun, about half a million moons would have to be shining in the sky at the same time.

Memorial for Jewish Patriot

PROPOSED SOLOMON MEMORIAL

One hundred and fifty-three years ago, a young Polish Jew came to America. He had just successfully started in the banking business when the Revolution began. Haim Solomon allied himself with the Colonists and arranged for them a loan of $1,000,000—a huge sum in those days. Although a later Congress appropriated money to repay the loan, his heirs refused to accept the money. Now a memorial to his honor is to be erected in New York City, and five models have been submitted. This one is by Bernard Gordon.

EAT UNCOOKED FOOD, SAYS THE SCIENTIST

Or the End of the Human Race Is Assured.

If the prophecies of scientists are fulfilled, then in a thousand and eighty years the human race will have changed into a type of animal much inferior to the highest order of ape, and just a trifle superior to the lowest type of savage.

The process of degeneration has been steadily proceeding for the last thousand years. Each generation has had less hair than the generation preceding it, and today, as is evident, baldness among men is the rule. Once it was a phenomenal exception. Within the next 300 years the human race may be hairless.

Teeth are going rapidly. The exact proportion of those with artificial molars is unknown, but it must be very high. Wisdom teeth now fail to come at all in many cases, and when they do appear they are very late.

Our jaws are much smaller, and even if, as is the case, our skulls are larger, that holds no comfort. Large heads do not indicate better brains.

Our eyes are going, going; and in time will be gone. Seventy per cent of the population, so it has been estimated, wear glasses.

Our ears, however, are all right, and hearing is one of the senses which has not deteriorated. But that is not a good sign. All animals have a very highly developed hearing power!

Stature has noticeably decreased. If there should be another war, there would have to be another revision, downward, of the minimum height for recruits.

So the end of the human race, as humans, is assured unless—well, the only salvation for the race, so scientists say, is to cease eating cooked foods!

So, even if the matter is not personally urgent, all who wish to provide their quota to the saving of humanity know now what to do!—Detroit Free Press.

Concerning Lithography

Printing from prepared stones has been known since 1786, when the art was invented by Senefelder. The stone employed is called a lithograph stone, and is a fine-grained stone of a very porous nature.

Before the war practically all lithographic stone came from Bavaria, as the variety quarried there is of the best quality and of the most practical color—a light gray.

These limestones absorb grease and water rapidly; therefore, if a line is drawn on a prepared stone with an ink containing grease, this line can be taken away only by removing the grease surface to the depth to which the grease has penetrated. If water is now placed on the stone, it will remain only on those parts not covered by the grease. When a roller carrying a greasy ink is passed over the stone the ink will cover only the greased portions, and the parts that are wet will not take up the ink. Therefore, a piece of paper pressed upon the stone will receive an impression in ink from the lines drawn only. On these principles depend lithography, the process being extremely visible in the printer's art.

Havoc by Sea Disaster

The explosion and conflagration at Halifax, Nova Scotia, December 6, 1917, was caused by the collision of two ships, one carrying a cargo of war munitions. The total destruction covered 2 1/2 square miles. This catastrophe was followed by a blizzard greatly hampering the work of rescue. One thousand one hundred and fifty-eight dead bodies were recovered, 4,000 were seriously injured, 20,000 rendered homeless, and the property loss was estimated at $50,000,000. The French steamship Mt. Blanc, carrying munitions, collided with the Belgian relief ship Imo. The French captain was Captain Lemodre, the Belgian captain W. J. Harrison. The French steamer was accused of not having used proper signals.

Quebec Has Chimes Back

Citizens of Quebec are rejoicing in the fact that from now on the chimes in the towers of their beloved Basilica will peal forth as they have not pealed since fire destroyed the historic temple in December, 1922. The last of the four huge bells that make up the carillon, which recently arrived from France, was put in position January 27 and tested satisfactorily. The other three were placed in the tower last spring. The weight of the four bells making up the chimes is 12,860 pounds, and special hydraulic engines were called into play to raise the huge masses of metal from the ground.

Grounds for Delay

The tired Saturday night patron at the Elite lunchroom in Hickburg had made up his mind to get some action. "Where's that coffee I ordered?" he thundered to the waiter.

"It'll be here in just a minute now," replied the waiter. "You see, it takes a little longer to make it on Saturday nights."

"Why is that?" "Well, we put in fresh grounds on Sundays, and 'long toward Saturday they get kind o' weak."—Judge.

Burned to Death In New York Fire

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, April 3.—One man was burned to death and two women were injured today in a fire which destroyed the top floor of a building house at number 210 Lenox avenue. John Bauman, a roomer, was trapped in his room, where the flames started, and perished before help could reach him. Miss Elizabeth Miller was carried down a scaling ladder to safety by firemen just as she prepared to leap from the top floor.

Youth and Middle Age

Youth is the time for action—middle age for thought. In youth, red-headed, red-ankled, with songs and shoutings, we gather in the grapes; in middle age, under our own fig tree or in quiet gossip with a friend, we drink the wine free of all turbid lees. Youth is a lyrical poet—middle age is a quiet essayist, fond of recounting experiences, and of appending a moral to every incident. In youth the world is strange and unfamiliar, novel and exciting; everything wears the face and garb of a stranger; in middle age the world is covered over with reminiscences as with a garment. It is made homely with usage. It is made sacred with graves.

Two Howlers

Special notice has just reached me of two excellent schoolboy howlers. The first is the most idiomatic translation of "Fare in bello," which was rendered "Freedom from indignation." The second relates to the well-known historical incident of Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh's cloak. After describing the scene, the pupil made the queen say:

"Sir Walter, I am afraid I have dirtied your cloak."

"Dieu et mon droit," replied Sir Walter, which means in English, "My G—d, you are right!"

She lived in the sixteenth century and besides being well acquainted with all of the old languages was an eminent Greek scholar. She is pointed to as having been the most learned woman of her time.

OCEAN TRADE

World Trade Keeps Tens of Thousands of Coal Miners Busy.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

There is a vast section of the United States that may be classed as inland. Most of its people never see the sea. But even though many do not realize it, they owe a great and mounting debt to salt water and to the complicated warp and woof of trade lines that ships engaged in world trade are constantly weaving.

Tradition says that Phoenicians or other tribes on the north shore of the Persian gulf were the world's first sea-traders. If this is true ocean trade began on an eventful day when restless, primitive man, piling his surplus grain and skins into his baggala, hoisted his clumsy mat sail and put to sea, venturing away to visit and barter for the first time on that distant, unknown isle whose peaks he could discern on clear days from the heights of his own coast home.

What a picture to conjure with—that first "sailing day!"

Sea-traders are the most practical geographers. Columbus and Magellan were the kings of explorers; of course; Drake and Hawkins were gentlemanly pirates; Peary and Scott courageous scientists, whom the world is proud to honor.

But the sea-trader! Whether he runs his own little tramp schooner or sits in New York or London and directs a great merchant fleet, he must know not only his map, his ports, his winds, currents, and climates, but his people, their politics, their products, needs, whims and manners, their language and their prejudices.

How many of the once blank spaces on the map have been filled in for us, not only as to the names and locations of towns, mountains, and rivers, but also as regards the true characteristics of a people, by the world's great traders, like the fur buyers and the tea merchants or typical Yankee trade agents.

Trade and Geography.

A hasty sketch of the high points in the history of world trade proves how much our map and its peculiarities have influenced all buying and selling.

It was the geographic pioneering of bold Latin sea-rovers in the fifteenth century that gave Europe its first adventure in ocean commerce. Up to that time, trade between nations had been carried on by caravans or mere coast boats. Even to this day it is possible to trace some of the old overland "silk routes" from China to Syria, to Poland, and to the Rhine; they always began in one great political center and ended in another.

In those days, too, sea-traders with cargoes from the Levant began to feel their way across the Mediterranean, while Chinese junks even ventured around to India and up the Tigris. Incidentally, it was this timid venturing along coast routes that maintained the commercial supremacy of Italy from Roman times till the Renaissance. Italy's boot-like peninsula making of her a great mole or pier extending down into the Mediterranean.

Because of the warlike Turks and their depredations on the caravans that followed the overland trail of Marco Polo, Europe became more and more anxious for a sea route to the legendary riches of India. And finally, thanks to the sturdy old Vasco da Gama, one of the boldest geographers of his day, the stanch windjammer of Lisbon reached the west coast of India. Six years previously, the greatest of Italian navigators had put to sea flying the flag of Spain and found a New World.

Thus these daring sailors not only put new continents on the map, to the consternation of the geographers of that day, but they brought on the greatest political and economic crisis that the world had ever known.

For two centuries Europe was shaken as a result of these voyages, and the centers of power shifted from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic coast—that is, from Venice and Genoa to Spain and Portugal; then to France, to Holland, and finally to England.

When bigger ships came into use, and when the importation of gold, diamonds, slaves, silks, and spices was followed by the import of new bulky raw materials, which were in turn exported in the form of manufactured goods, England crowded ahead. Her splendid geographical position, her harbors, her coal and iron mines, enabled her to gain the mastery of the seas.

America's Merchant Marine. Then, after the Revolution, the United States took an important place in ocean trade. Whose heart does not thrill at the memory of those proud days of the Flying Cloud, the Belle of the Sea, or the Red Rover, when America carried 92 per cent of all her overseas trade in her own bottoms! When our "cod-headed, mackerel-tailed" clippers could make the Calcutta run in 95 days; when the famous James Baine logged 21 knots and made a world record!

The story of the misfortunes of the sixties and the decline of our merchant marine is familiar. Even when Roosevelt sent the fleet around the world, we had to depend on foreign colliers.

But today, from Memel to Melbourne, our merchant ships—stupendous heritages of the World War—are poking their newly painted noses into every harbor of the world.

Every week our factories turn out shiploads of goods above our own requirements, for which we must find markets abroad. In competition not only with our late allies but with other nations now struggling desperately for economic life. And now, as in that keenly competitive commercial era of the old Venetian traders, no actor plays a more interesting or adventurous role than the consul.

In the State department at Washington there's a big map of the world bristling with colored pins, like a war map of the general staff. This map shows where our consuls are posted. There is a dense cloud of pins covering Europe and Latin America and thin patches over Africa and Asia.

The picturesque nomad of Arabia or Turkey, though he contributes occasional wool and hides to the world's trade, is not really worth his space on the map, judged by modern economic standards. So gradually in Egypt, Mesopotamia, and western Siberia, irrigation, railways, and the stubborn hide of immigrant farmers are forcing the nomad to abandon his roving life and go to work or go the way of Lo, our poor Indian.

In the Levant the geographical consequences of war have affected the trade of the world to a striking degree. Boundary lines have twisted, caliphs have gone down and kings come up. Over all is the shadow of the famous Baghdad railway and the odor of oil.

Persia, fighting bankruptcy for 400 years, is suddenly galvanized into new life by the Anglo-Persian Oil company's great works on the Karun.

A whole world watches the mandate experiments in Mesopotamia and Syria, speculates on the problems of Palestine and its Jewish home.

Old caravan trails, blazed long ago by Hittites, Medes, and Persians, are being abandoned as new governments, new borders, and new railways bring new channels of traffic and sweeping changes in the trade geography of this old Bible land.

Vast Exchange of Goods. Our trade current from the tropics has grown vastly in recent years; so has our exchange of goods with Asia and the East Indies, where we trade machinery, drugs, dyes, and manufactures for silks, fibers, hides, coffee, tea, and rice.

Borne by these same currents, the Yankee type of culture is carried to all quarters of the globe. From the mud walls of Bombay to the billboards of Brussels, our familiar advertisements, words and pictures, advance agents of foreign trade, cry a rude Yankee welcome to the wandering American.

It is the very vastness of our own industries and the immensity of our agriculture which cause many Americans to overlook the fact that each year, as we grow, we must import more and more to balance industry. Latin America is our greatest storehouse. From her we draw hides, asphalt, oil, sugar, rubber, steel and fruit, as well as all other commodities we need for our own industries.

With all this we still be quite dependent on foreign lands for many of the necessities of life. From Maine to California, from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, we are constantly importing raw materials. A more fragrant life in the great victory of 1918, I think, a vivid, convincing reminder of the new world's dependence on the old world's material structure on land and sea, to live.

Hurt by Motor Hearse. A runaway motor hearse at New England, recently dashed across the road, mounted the pavement and plumed the wife of the chief justice against the wall of the royal infirmary, severely injuring her.

Hangar Made into Church. A hangar at New England, recently converted into a church, is a very interesting structure.

Ohio State University Basket Ball Championship Team

From left to right—Miner, forward; Seiffer, back guard; Cunningham, center; Shaw, forward; Cameron, captain, running guard. These five men put Ohio State on the basketball map for the last two years by winning 28 out of 31 games, tying for second place in the Big Ten in 1922 and winning the western conference championship this year. This is the first year Ohio State has won a championship in basketball since entering the Big Ten in 1913.

Dawson Quits Nebraska

Fred T. Dawson, director of athletics at the University of Nebraska, has left for a western ranch to recuperate from pulmonary trouble. Dawson went to Nebraska in 1921 and has had great success with his football teams. His teams were champions of the Missouri conference in 1921, 1922 and 1923. As physicians recommended a higher altitude, it is expected he will seek a coaching position in a western college.

Golf Has Become Course

in Chicago High School
Golf has become an extra course in Lake View High school with a class of pupils under the tutelage of a professional and the plan may spread to all the high schools in Chicago. It was said by the principal, Charles H. Herline, who has advocated golf as an exercise in schools in place of the usual gymnastics.
It is only a few years since golf began to take hold in universities and now it is a major sport in many colleges with intercollegiate contests regularly played. The same growth in high schools is predicted.
Amber Andrews, a Scotch professional has been assigned to teach the Lake View golf class. Regular grades will be given.

Hunter to Stay

Willie Hunter formerly British amateur champion, likes the United States and eventually may become one of Uncle Sam's citizens. He has a host of friends and admirers in this country who would welcome such a move.

Hunter was recently united in marriage to Miss Josephine Edwards, a prominent member of the Hollywood Golf club in Los Angeles. "Willie's" advent into matrimony followed closely his adoption of a career as golf professional January at the Brentwood Country club of Los Angeles.

In 1920 Hunter's name was practically unknown as a golfer, except for a few close acquaintances in Great Britain, who knew the former telegrapher had talent as a linkman. "Willie" showed it in 1921 by winning the British amateur title. Later he came to the United States, but returned to defend his honor. He failed and again came to this country, locating in Los Angeles, where for a time he acted as corresponding secretary of the Rancho Country club.

Always With Winner

L. J. Bush, pitcher, transferred from the New York American league baseball club to the St. Louis Browns last fall for U. J. Shocker, has never played on an American league club which has not won a pennant. Boston and Philadelphia won pennants the first year he played with each. Fans wonder if this has any bearing on St. Louis winning a pennant this year, as it is the only city in either league which has not a pennant to its credit.

PIRATES WILL BE FAST THIS SEASON

Speed Will Be Big Factor in Pittsburgh's Drive for the Pennant.

Speed will be a dominant factor in the pennant drive of the Pittsburgh Pirates this season.

Already the fastest club in the senior circuit, the acquisition of George Grantham from the Chicago Cubs has given the Buccaneers a monopoly on speed.

The 1923 pirates will boast probably the four most proficient base stealers in the National league. Max Carey, who, like Eddie Collins, seems to gather speed with age, led the Herdier organization last season with 57 thefts, while the young outfield recruit, Hazen Cuyler, was next, with 32. Pie Traynor stole 24 and Grantham 21. The former Cub has demonstrated he can do better than this, however, for he stole 48 bases in 1922, ranking second to Carey, who led with 51.

Besides this quarter, Manager McKelchie has other speed merchants in Eddie Moore and Glen Wright, 1924 rookie sensations, and Carson Bigbee, outfielder.

The Pirates supplanted Chicago as the most prolific base-stealing club last season. They recorded 180 thefts, 47 more than the Cubs, who were next in line.

As proof of the speed of the quartet which will lead the 1923 Pirate march, the 1924 figures show that collectively they stole only nine bases less than the whole Cub team and exceeded the mark of every outfit in the league.

Umpire's Existence Is

Jeers and No Cheers

An umpire's existence is generally all jeers and no cheers, remarks Billy Evans in relating the latest one from Charley Rigler. Rigler tells it himself as follows:

"I was sent to Annapolis to officiate at the annual ball game between Annapolis and West Point. I was all dolled up for the occasion, suit pressed, new cap and shoes oiled.

"Just as I walked onto the field to start the game there was a salvo of applause from the grandstand that I will never forget.

"I threw out the old chest a little farther. It was in the colleges where the umpire was really appreciated.

"As the captain of the West Point, handed me his batting order for the day, he brought me back to earth when he said:

"That outburst of applause was for President Roosevelt. He just entered the grandstand. Then I realized it was all a dream. I had merely made my entrance at the same time as the late President."

Hurts No-Hit Game, but Loses Out in the Tenth

One of the greatest pitching duels on record in the majors took place May 2, 1917, between Fred Toney of Cincinnati and "Big Jim" Vaughn, Chicago Cubs.

The game went ten innings, Cincinnati winning, 1 to 0. Toney didn't allow a solitary safety during the entire battle and for the first time frames Vaughn also hurled without a hit.

Vaughn faltered in the tenth, and was credited with one of the toughest defeats of baseball annals.

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

Maple Producers Released from Contract

Members of the Maple Producers' Co-operative association, Inc., Syracuse, are no longer held to their marketing contract, according to notice received by the members after the annual meeting of the association. A plan was adopted at the meeting for continuing the association's activities and meetings will be held in maple producing sections to orally the members to an organization of some sort.

The present plan contemplates the removal of the processing plant of the association from Syracuse to a point where the business can be handled with a minimum of overhead expenses; the concentration of effort upon selling the blended syrups; and sufficient support from the membership to supply the maple syrup needed to produce the blended article.

Figures compiled by the association indicate that while the association has not handled as great a quantity of maple products as was expected, it has been a factor in raising the price level for syrup for all producers in the territory over which the association has been operating.

Farm Bureau Develops Community Leadership

The development of communities and of community leadership by the farm bureau in New York state was the subject of a radio address broadcast from Station WGY, Schenectady, on March 30 by Thomas McKeary of Marilla.

"Today there is in nearly every rural community several active leaders assisting their neighbor farmers to acquire the science of agriculture by field tests and demonstrations. Because of the community spirit of these men and a sense of responsibility to their neighbors they are recognized as real leaders," said Mr. McKeary. "Communities are active in several projects to put their business on a more profitable basis and to make rural life more satisfying and attractive in our day and to the generations to follow, such as the eradication of bovine tuberculosis, the co-operative sale of products, and the co-operative purchase of supplies."

Mr. McKeary was a speaker on the Farm Bureau Radio program, which is broadcast on the last Monday of each month at 7:15 p. m., from WGY.

Annual Meeting of Dairymen's League to Be Held in New York

For the first time in the history of polling association, the Dairymen's League Co-operative association, Inc., will hold its annual meeting in New York city. This announcement is made by the board of directors after a careful survey of the wishes of the membership throughout the various districts of League territory.

The annual meeting of the Dairymen's League Co-operative association, Inc., has come to be recognized as one of the most important, if not the most important, meetings of farmers held during the year. In addition to the usual routine program, there are always speakers of outstanding reputation. Besides the regularly elected delegates, there are hundreds of League members whose trip to the annual meeting is an excursion to which they look forward from one year to the next. It is expected that the coming meeting in New York on June 18 next will attract large groups of members, especially from the southern and eastern sections of the territory, a large proportion of which will travel by automobile.

Holding the meeting in New York will have the added advantage of giving the membership the opportunity to see the general offices of their association and to get some first hand knowledge about the great market where their milk is being sold.

Freight Rate Lowered Through Federation Action

Through the efforts of the transportation department of the New York State Farm Bureau federation freight rates on lime to points in Chautauque county, have recently been reduced by the roads, the farmers affected were informed recently.

While nearly every point in Chautauque county has been paying a freight rate on lime of $1.90 per ton farmers in the vicinity of Fentonville and Frewsburg have been required to pay $1.44 per ton. A reduction to $1.00 was requested of the roads by E. V. Titus, transportation director for the federation; the railroad official in charge of the case offered to reduce the rate to $1.15 and this was accepted by the federation, after consulting with the farmers concerned.

Grades of Butter

In recent years, thanks to a better understanding of the relation of quality in cream to quality in butter, farmers are not only willing to sell their cream on a grading basis, but in sections where grading has not been established they are demanding that their cream be paid for on a quality basis. Not long ago patrons of an Iowa creamery boycotted their old creamery man and built a co-operative creamery, for no other reason than that the creamery man refused to pay according to grade.

Hamilton's Claim to Fame

The title "Father of His Country" is generally reserved for George Washington. Alexander Hamilton, however, undoubtedly rendered enormous economic and financial assistance to the country at the time. During his term of office as first secretary of the treasury his services, according to some authorities, were scarcely less valuable than those of Washington himself.

Needle's Goal

Violin Wood

Violins are made of any kind of hard wood. The tops are often made of spruce, bass and sides of maple, ebony finger wood, tail piece, and pegs, but they are not all made in this way, though many good modern instruments are. Handmade violins generally cost from one hundred dollars up to $500,000.

Hewitt Highway Bill Approved

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., April 3.—Governor Smith today signed the Hewitt bill providing for a new state highway map. It will add about 2,400 miles to the present state highway routes. The governor approved a total of 41 bills.

Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, state superintendent of public works, estimated it would take the state about ten years to complete the program which has been laid out in the new statute. When all the provisions of the new map have been carried out and the roads now under construction are completed, the state will have about 14,000 miles of improved roads, Colonel Greene said.

Dr. Tipple at Trinity Church

There will be two outstanding services at the Trinity Methodist Church on Sunday. In the morning at 10:30 Dr. Ezra S. Tipple, president of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J., will preach. Dr. Tipple is an able preacher and one of the best informed men in Methodism.

Drew under his administration has advanced along constructive lines and has graduated a large percentage of the ministers serving the New York Conference as well as the New York East and Newark Conferences.

At the evening service at 7:30 o'clock the anniversary of the Educational Society with Dr. Bovard as the speaker of the evening. The public is cordially invited.

DeMonzie French Finance Head

Becomes Minister of Finance Following Forced Resignation of Etienne Clementel—Cabinet Escapes Crisis.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, April 3.—Anatole De Monzie today accepted the portfolio of French minister of finance vacated by the forced resignation of Etienne Clementel, and the Herriot cabinet, apparently escaping a crisis which threatened its overthrow, met to consider internal finance strategy, in which inflation will have no part.

The government is convinced of the necessity of thorough financial reform and finds the present moment opportune for such reform, the cabinet's attitude.

An all night meeting of the cabinet followed Clementel's resignation after his unauthorized declaration before the Senate that the government intended to increase banknote circulation a limited amount for commercial needs.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Verne Clark, wife of Adelbert V. Strickland, died at Lake Mahopac, N. Y., Wednesday. Funeral at her home, Lake Mahopac, on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment at Accord on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mary C., wife of William Sheeley, died this morning at her home, 34 Post street, after a brief illness. Mrs. Sheeley was a resident of this city for the past seventeen years and was well and favorably known. Besides her husband she is survived by three sons, Charles, Joseph and William, and one brother, John Sheehan and one sister, Mrs. Bridget Reilly. Notice of funeral later.

The many friends of Mrs. E. Chase Crowley will be shocked to learn of her sudden death from pneumonia on Wednesday at her home in New York city. Mr. and Mrs. Crowley had made Kingston their summer residence for a number of years formed many warm friendships here. Mrs. Crowley is survived by her husband, E. Chase Crowley, an attorney of New York city, one son, Solace of Jacksonville, Florida, and one daughter, Virginia Terry Mitchell of New York city.

Phoebe A., widow of William Egnor, died this morning at the family residence, 39 Franklin street. Funeral Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late residence. Interment in Hurley cemetery. Patrick J. Dunn died today at his home, No. 85 Garden street. For many years he was employed in the blue stone business, but of late years had led a retired life. He was a man who was held in high esteem by all who knew him. Besides his wife he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. M. Purcell of Brooklyn, and two sons, Joseph E. and Richard F. Dunn, both of this city. Funeral from the late residence Monday morning at 9 o'clock and at 9:30 o'clock from St. Mary's Church with a high Mass of requiem for the repose of his soul. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Elizabeth Myer, wife of D. B. Hendricks, of 149 Elmendorf street, died at the family home this morning. Funeral from the late residence on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in Willowick Cemetery. Besides her husband she is survived by five brothers, the Rev. Walter Myer of Concord, N. H.; the Rev. Johnson Myer of Chicago; the Rev. Cortland Myer of Los Angeles, Cal.; Bernard Myer of Brooklyn, and Abram Myer of Poughkeepsie, and two sisters, Isabelle, wife of William E. Simmons, and Elsie, wife of the late Solomon Pultz, both of this city.

Mrs. Amelia Rein, widow of Frank Rein, died today following a long illness. Mrs. Rein came to this country about 45 years ago and settled in Connelly and by her genial disposition and kindness she had endeared herself to a large circle of friends. She leaves two sons, Lawrence at home and Joseph of this city; also two daughters, Miss Eva at home and Mrs. Peter Maurer of Connelly. Funeral from her late home at Connelly Monday morning at 8:45 and 9:30 at St. Peter's church, this city, with a requiem Mass for the repose of her soul. The members of the Society of Christian Mothers of St. Peter's Church, where the deceased had long been a faithful member, are invited to attend a prayer service at the late home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

John VanHorn, Uncle John, one of the best known residents of Ellenville, where he had resided for fifty-seven years, died at his home Wednesday, April 1, aged 81 years. He was for a number of years engaged in the drug business. Mr. VanHorn was a veteran of the Civil War and served first with the 124th New York Volunteers and later enlisted in Company C, of the Old Twentieth, being discharged January 25, 1865. His wife, who was Miss Katie Clark before marriage, and who he married January 28, 1855, and also one daughter, Mrs. Anna Hyatt survives. He had been ill since November last. Mr. VanHorn was one of the oldest members of the Masonic fraternity in Ellenville, having affiliated with Wawaricus Lodge, F. & A. M., since 1850 and was the surviving member of Wawaricus Chapter, R. A. M., founded from his late home, Ellenville, Saturday, April 4, at 2:30 o'clock.

St. Peter's Liturgy Meeting.

There will be an important meeting of St. Peter's Liturgy tonight, following church services. All members requested to be present.

Fashions Offered by Paris Makers

Molded Bodice and Flared Skirt Most Salient Feature of Spring Mode.

The Paris couture has fired its opening spring fusillade and with the clearing of the smoke there is revealed a curious lack of unanimity among the important French creators of dress, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. There are, of course, certain general points of accord, but no one theme is sufficiently popular to be without its eminent prophets of dissent. The combination of molded bodice and flared skirt is unquestionably the most salient characteristic of the new spring offerings, yet some of the well-known designers entirely omit this theme from their collections, adhering instead to the well-worn straight-line silhouette of recent years.

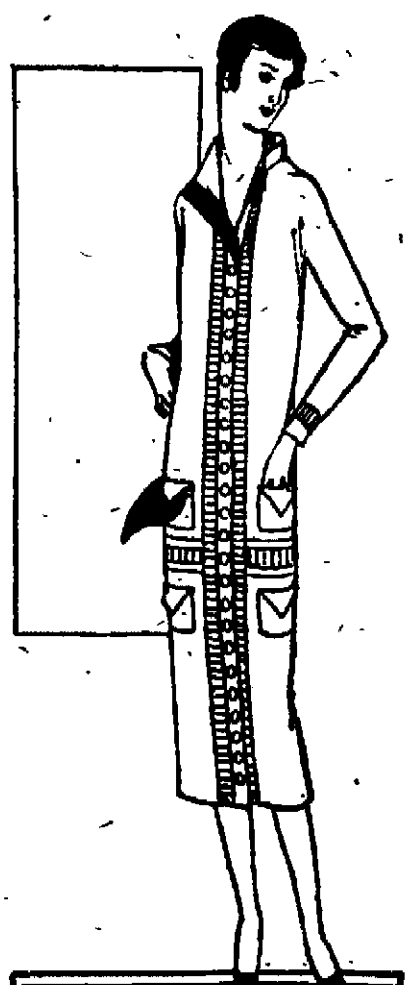

An idea of the diversity of spring styles may be had from the appended short reviews of some of the Paris opening collections. What follows is a general outline—brief, sketchy and intended to convey a bird's-eye impression of some of the early spring collections.

Loose lines characterize the Chanel spring silhouette, although there is a perceptible tendency toward a slightly marked waistline, appearing at the normal line. Skirts are shorter than last season and slightly wider, the additional width being attained through circular lines. Chanel, however, entirely avoids the molded bodice which is the usual accompaniment of the flared skirt this season, adhering instead to the looser effects. The jumper frock, generally accompanied by a short coat, is one of the most significant features in this collection. Ensembles usually exploit a long coat of wool in combination with a crepe dress, the ensemble unity being carried out by the color or design of the materials. Lace is an important item in formal frocks. The robes du soir are notable for their elaborate trimmings.

Favors Marked Waistline.

Jean Patou places himself squarely among the advocates of the molded bodice and flared skirt in his spring exhibition at which six American mannequins made their debut in Paris fashions. Even the tailleur exploits an occasional flare and on dresses and coats the distended effect is inevitable. There is a distinct tendency toward a slightly marked waistline which usually finds a haven at a normal or just higher than normal line. The short jacket makes its appearance in conjunction with the sports suit, but the more formal tailleur sponsor three-quarter-length coats instead. Luxurious ornamentation distinguishes the new evening gowns from those of last season.

Jenny, at least, has remained deaf to the siren call of the mold and flare. While several of her models do incorporate a modified version of the flare, generally she remains faithful to the straight, slim lines of recent seasons.

The skirts are a little shorter than before and the waistline is raised slightly above the normal, principally through the use of the bodice. Printed fabrics are used widely for the dress or coat lining of ensembles. Suits exploit both the short and the three-quarter jacket.

Captain Molyneux, long one of the ardent sponsors of the straight and narrow silhouette, has finally forsaken the beaten path and has allied himself with the sponsors of the mold and flare fashion. The wider skirt is obtained through two typical treatments—the circular cut and pleats. It is not a sudden sharp flare but rather a gradual widening which is hardly perceptible at times. Skirts remain short, although not so short as the waistline is low as before, and unquestioned approval is sure more suited to the ensemble. Among the newer notes is the two-piece jumper frock and the two and three-piece pyjama. An interesting similarity is often carried out between sleeves and skirt, the former widening gradually from the elbow to equal the flare in the latter. Evening dresses are cut on simple lines, but they have acquired an elaborate ornamentation which is distinctly a new departure. Laces, embroideries and brocades are among the methods used to elaborate the robes du soir.

Jumper Frocks Popular.

Martial of Armand embody three characteristics in their spring, although the bodice is sharply pointed, the waistline is slightly defined and the skirt is narrow to the hemline, at which point is fares perceptibly. The two-piece jumper frock stands out among the sports clothes and the typical tailleur combines an abbreviated jacket and a plaited skirt. Sleeves are or are not. When present, they are of numerous varieties—tight all the way, loose above the elbow and tight below, and snug above and loose below. The decorative note is emphasized strongly in trimmings and embroideries of metal, leather and fur. Plaid alpaca, silk serges, taffeta, jersey, silk crepe and numerous wool novelties are the principal fabrics and many blue, gray and red are the significant colors.

The tailored note is accented by Philippe at Gaston in a collection which incorporates the low waistline and adheres generally to the straight silhouette. The skirts are a little looser than last season, but their general effect is still rather slender. Braid trimming is a familiar note on the suits, the jackets of which are frequently casquilas. Embroidery on formal gowns, a long sleeve which is snug above the elbow and wide below it, and dual color combinations are among other interesting features of the Philippe at Gaston models.

A distinctly feminine note pervades the entire Agnes collection and gives evidence that the French creators are not entirely inclined toward too great simplicity. Extremely ornate embroideries and jeweled decorations characterize the evening models, while lace works its way into the sleeves of afternoon frocks. Kashia, printed crepes, chiffons, georgette crepe and ottoman are the principal materials. Black, yellow and the blue range are the outstanding colors. Sleeves are generally wide.

Ensembles in Linelight.

Woolen and alpaca ensembles stand forth prominently in the models of Madeleine et Madeleine-Anne, which also show a predilection for director's themes. The silhouette is short and flaring in the formal afternoon and evening clothes, and short and narrow for the numerous tailored suits. Among the fabrics, printed silks, notably chiffon, are generally favored.

Paul Poiret has also joined the ranks of the narrow and wide, the typical silhouette exploiting a snug bodice and a moderately flared skirt which inaugurates its flaring propensities at the waistline. The models generally show a longer skirt length than is usual, the hem reaching to about ten inches off the ground. A bustle effect is featured for evening dresses and it attracted much favorable comment at the opening exhibition. The ensemble is a frequent note in afternoon costumes, but the tailleur is comparatively unimportant. Sleeves are of all varieties, but are invariably long. Chiffons, metallic fabrics and taffetas, the latter principally for robes du soir, are the outstanding materials.

A tendency toward a higher waistline was manifested by Lucien Lelong at his spring opening. Perhaps to maintain the proper balance the skirt lengths favored by this house reach to from 14 to 15 inches off the ground, seldom reaching to more than an inch or two below the knees. The typical silhouette molds the bodice fairly close and flares moderately at the hemline.

The pastielite idea is expressed in sports wear which exploits knee-length breeches worn under a short, straight sports skirt. Youthful effects predominate in this collection, and these are expressed in both tailored and feminine effects. Numerous prints are used and the color contrast is substituted for the graded ombre shades. Pearls, lace and embroideries are the principal means of ornamentation. Much significance is attributed to the evening décolletage, which is sharply lower than the high line of last season.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, April 3.—Prices moved in a narrow radius today as speculative interests in many stocks almost completely disappeared. Railroad stocks vanished almost entirely from the active list. Coppers, oils and motors monopolized whatever interest there was. Sales in the first three hours were only a little over 500,000 shares.

Sinclair Oil made a good response to the quashing of the indictment of Sinclair, Fall and Dehewer in the supreme court by advancing more than a point, up 20 1/2. Marland's advance to 36 1/2, up 4 points from the low of the week, and Standard Oil of New Jersey's rise to 42 were other features.

Motor stocks were next to the oil inactivity and gains. Chandler led the low priced stocks with a rise of 35 1/2. Nash Motors sold up to a record high at 310 and Pierce Arrow Preferred crossed 50.

American Sugar, Allis Chalmers, and the so-called Durant stocks, Universal Pipe, American Safety Razor and Cast Iron Pipe sold at the best prices of the week. Central Leather Preferred was up about 4 points; American Water Works sold about 47.

American Woolen received more attention from the bears and declined to around 36.

Conspiracy Charge Quashed

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, April 3.—The indictments returned against ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny, at the time of the congressional oil investigation, were quashed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia today by Justice McCoy. The indictments had charged conspiracy to defraud the government. The government will appeal.

The G. A. R. will hold a card party at the chapter house on Saturday, April 25.

Celibates by Choice

I think that it is true there are men and women who wisely realize that having reached the approach of middle age, it is better to remain unmarried rather than marry from any but the most serious reasons.

Marriages made in middle age may be extremely happy. But there are women, as there are men, who have through experience, through adversity, through the need of self-dependence, attained so great a degree of individuality that they feel that in marriage, with its enormous need of adaptability, they would become lost.

We ought not to dismiss such people as necessarily selfish and self-centered. Probably they know that their capacity for friendship,

Retail Dealers Hold Banquet

Matters of Mutual Interest Discussed at Second Annual Banquet of the Ulster County Retail Provision Dealers' Association.

Over 100 members and guests of the Ulster County Retail Provision Dealers' Association met at the Ad- vance restaurant Thursday evening when the second annual banquet of the association was held. Represent- atives from the local wholesale con- cerns and from the W. T. Reynolds Company at Poughkeepsie were pres- ent as guests of the association. After a delightful Vermont turkey dinner had been served with all of the fixings, Toastmaster C. T. Ben- nett introduced the speakers of the evening and from them several in- teresting matters of interest to re- tail grocers were learned.

Among the speakers was E. J. Ranney of the Fleischmanns Yeast Company who spoke on "Progressive Methods of the Modern Grocer." W. H. Miles of Everett & Trean- der and F. B. Matthews cooperated in explaining the "Phone for Food" slogan which has been adopted by grocers and which has proved to be a great success, especially in the middle west. They explained the advantages of the idea and how through proper cooperation between the dealer and the consumer much better service would be possible.

Secretary Coe of the Chamber of Commerce gave a very interesting address on "Industrial Expansion in Kingston During the Past Three Years."

Mr. Gallup of the Loose-Wiles Company, manufacturers of Sunshine products, expressed his appreciation for past favors extended him and his company and extended good wishes to the dealers both from him- self and the company he represented.

Music during the evening was sup- plied by Paul Zucca's orchestra and the Amerello Brothers and Tommy Dolan furnished entertainment which kept the diners in a very jovial spirit.

The retail dealers of the city and county were well represented and only the limit of tickets, due to limited accommodations, prevented a much larger attendance. Tickets for the dinner were disposed of early and more could have been sold if space allowed.

During the evening bags contain- ing donations from 20 manufacturers and wholesalers were distributed containing articles manufactured or sold by the several companies.

A vote of thanks was extended Mr. Siskind, secretary of the Asso- ciation, for his untiring efforts, for the Association during the past year during which he has acted as its secretary. A spirit of thorough co- operation between dealers and wholesalers was exhibited through- out the evening and much informa- tion of value to the members was secured through the several speakers.

Ancient Indian Skeleton Dug Up

Men Employed Excavating on Grounds of Postmaster W. P. Crane in Poughkeepsie Unearthed Skeleton—That Section an Old Indian Burial Ground.

This morning workmen employed in excavating on the property of Postmaster Walter P. Crane were startled to uncover with their shovels the skeleton of what is thought to be an Indian. Postmaster Crane is having a new stairway built lead- ing from the Strand to his residence on the hill overlooking the street, and it was while digging in the side hill that the skeleton was uncovered.

It lay with the head to the west and the feet to the east, having been buried so as to face the rising sun. The body when buried had been laid partly on one side. It is thought that the skeleton is that of an Indian who had been buried there over two hundred years ago.

The teeth were in a remarkable state of preservation. The skeleton, however, when removed began to fall apart.

According to tradition that sec- tion of Poughkeepsie in the days be- fore the white man was used by the Indian tribes as a burial ground. Old residents of that section of the city recall that when the cellars were excavated for the houses to be erected many years ago the skulls of In- dians were often unearthed.

Governor Vetoes Bouton Bill

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, April 3.—(Special)—Governor Smith has vetoed the bill by Senator Bouton which provides that the salary of the Ulster county transfer tax clerk shall be fixed by the president of the state tax com- mission.

In a memorandum accompanying his veto, Governor Smith writes that the bill and others of its character should not have been passed. "All that they seek to do has been cared for in another bill signed by me," he comments.

Chinese Bandits Abduct Women

By Telegram to The Freeman. London, April 3.—A thousand women and girls were carried away by bandits who looted towns in the province of Shensi, China, according to a Tien Tsin dispatch today to the Central News.

Shensi is one of the vast provinces lying south of Mongolia.

Sea Hijackers Strip Schooner

By Telegram to The Freeman. Halifax, N. S., April 3.—Days of the pirates of the Spanish main were recalled today when the schooner Faustina came into port stripped of her valuable cargo of liquor and everything else except her sails.

Hijackers of the sea were aboard the Faustina four days, the crew said.

Dwyers Building Three Barges

Dwyer Brothers are busy building three barges for the New York Central Railroad, and expect to launch the first of the three some time next week. After launching the barges houses and cabins will be built on them. The barges are 100 feet over all with 32 foot beam. The house on the barge is 86 feet long, and the cabin will have a kitchen, living room and bedroom, and all the necessities for the com- fort of the captain and his family.

Helen Byrne Is Queen of May

Helen Byrne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Byrne, of 105 El- mendorf street, will be the Queen of the May, at the festivities to be held at the Kingston High School this year. The annual May Day festi- vities at the local high school are very pretty and each year are viewed by large attendances.

Miss Byrne was selected May Queen receiving forty-six votes out of a total number of 113 votes cast. Miss Attilia Riccobono received forty votes and Miss Alberta Davis re- ceived twenty-seven. The election was held on Tuesday.

Fair Commission Run by Cahill

By Telegram to The Freeman. Syracuse, N. Y., April 3.—"The New York State Fair Commission is dominated by Commissioner Jack Cahill, Democrat, Syracuse," Lieut- enant Governor Seymour Lowman, Republican charged today following his first official appearance in this city.

In an interview, the lieutenant governor declared that five of the commissioners were invariably in a receptive mood to the propositions of Commissioner Cahill. He asserted that Commissioner Fred B. Parker of Batavia alone stood with him.

Threatened to Bomb School

By Telegram to The Freeman. Pittsburgh, Pa., April 3.—Three hundred and seventy-five students and eight teachers were rushed from the Braddock township public school near here today shortly before a man, giving the name of Horace Dostite, was arrested, charged with having sent a note, threatening to bomb the school house.

According to police the man con- fessed writing the note to Miss Marian Busche, principal of the school.

Fearing a repetition of the blast which destroyed the recent Square school at Swissvale, a week ago, po- lice began an immediate search of the Braddock school for bombs which might have been hidden in the build- ing.

TWO SPECIAL SERVICES AT BAPTIST CHURCH

On Sunday there will be two special services at the Albany Ave- nue Baptist Church, both of them of a unique and interesting character. In the morning the Salvation Army will be in charge, and Colonel Rich- ard and Helz, chief secretary for the United States, will be the speaker. The Salvation Army Band of Schen- ectady will render both instrumental and vocal selections. At the evening service the preacher will be the Rev. W. H. Lindhous, pastor of the Tremont M. E. Church, New York city, who is in attendance at the Methodist Conference.

Card Party Postponed

The card party scheduled for April 7 at Mechanics Hall has been pos- tponed until April 20, on account of holy week. Tickets will be good for the deferred date.

About 1:40 o'clock this morning the ambulance removed Catherine Brill from North Pond and Wall streets to the Kingston City Hospi- tal.

Special Term Saturday

A regular special term of the Su- preme court will be held at the court house Saturday. Judge Finch will preside in the absence of Judge Har- vey.

Chapman Case Sent to Jury

Mail Bandit Little Interested in Procedure—Jury Charged to Consider Only Charge of Shooting Po- liceman Skelly.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Hartford, Conn., April 3.—The case of Gerald Chapman, mail band- it, on trial for the murder of a New Britain policeman, went to the jury at 12:59 this afternoon.

Judge Newell Jennings delivered a short charge to the jury, admon- ishing them to avoid "sympathy" in their conclusions and adhere strictly to the facts as brought out in the evidence.

Chapman rested his cheek on his right hand during the reading of the judge's charge. He held a letter in his hand and tapped the table quietly with it during the judge's reading. He appeared little interested in the judicial procedure.

Judge Jennings said the jury's duty rested on a simple question: "Did Gerald Chapman shoot Police- man James Skelly in New Britain on the morning of October 12?"

Referring to the exception taken by the defense that the state attorney had called Chapman "a murderer" in the summation, he cautioned the jury to remember the accused was "innocent until proven guilty."

South African Tells of Odd Sea Monster

One morning I saw what I took to be two whales fighting with some sea monster about 1,500 yards from the shore. I got my glasses and was surprised to see an animal which resem- bled a polar bear, but in size was equal to an elephant. This object I observed to back out of the water fully 20 feet and strike repeatedly at the two whales, but with seemingly no effect.

So writes H. C. Ballance of Natal, Africa, in a Natal newspaper. Con- tinuing, he says: "After an hour the whales made off and the incoming tide brought the monster within sight, and I saw that the body was covered with hair eight inches long, exactly like a polar bear's and snow white."

Next morning Mr. Ballance found the carcass lying high on the beach. He measured it and found it was 47 feet from tip to tail. The tail was ten feet long and two feet wide, and where the head should have been the creature had a sort of trunk 14 inches in diameter and about five feet long, the end being like the snout of a pig. The backbone was very prominent and the whole body covered with snow- white hair.

"For ten days," said Mr. Ballance, "this mass lay there. On the eleventh day there was not a sign of the creature. I met some natives, who told me that while fishing they had seen the monster out at sea, going up the coast, and that is the last we have seen of it."

Matter Was Obviously Question for the Deer

Representative O'Connor was dis- cussing in New York his plan for an investigation of telephone and tele- graph companies.

"These companies need investigat- ing, if only for their own good," he said. "They have such a bad habit, when questioned, of giving haughty and evasive answers."

"They're like Colonel Carter of Car- tersville. The colonel sat in the lounge of a New York hotel one evening with a New York banker.

"'Yes,' he was saying, 'it's a power- ful fertile country down round Carter hall. Why, sah, I know woods down there where the trees grow so close that you can't shove your hand be- tween the trunks. And game, why, sah, I've seen deer in them woods with a ten-foot spread of antlers. Yes, sah, a ten-foot spread.'"

"'But, colonel,' said the banker, 'how can the deer get those antlers between those trunks?'"

"Colonel Carter drew himself up. "That, sah," he said, "is their busi- ness."

The First Circus

The traveling circus originated in London and was kept by a man named Philip Astley, who lived at the end of the Eighteenth century.

From the very beginning, the circus was held in a tent, the center of which formed the arena where the perfor- mance took place. The seats for the spectators were arranged in tiers ac- cording to the central space.

The same exhibitions which char- acterized our own circus were found in the first one. There were feats of horsemanship, such as leaping through hoops from the back of a galloping horse, standing with one foot on each of two horses, as they gallop side by side.

Actor Badly Rattled

A young man had to take part in some amateur theatricals. His part was quite a minor one and there was really not a great deal for him to do or say.

After the shooting scene the young man had to enter the stage and say: "Hark! 'Tis the pistol!"

Now, during rehearsal a real pistol was never used, and the youth, on re- ceiving his cue, walked in and per- formed his part quite efficiently.

On the opening night, however, a real pistol was substituted for the real one, and this apparently took the young man by surprise, for as the pistol was off he rushed on and cried: "To order! What do you want with me?"

The drafted motion was later presented and adopted.

Routine Matters

A communication from the town clerk of Wawarsing in relation to the appointment of Dillon B. Hum- phrey as supervisor of that town to succeed Chester Young, resigned, was read and filed.

The Ulster county board of elec- tions submitted its annual report which showed that for all election purposes, printing, etc., there had been expended $13,490.81. Filed.

Appeal Skipped Award

Supervisor Elwyn offered a resolu- tion that County Attorney Eckert be empowered to appeal to the appellate division from the report of commis- sioners of appraisal for taking of lands and damages growing out of stoppage of business of the Dr. Jo- seph Hashbrouck farm, amounting ap- proximately to $34,000. Adopted.

A protest signed by 51 residents in the vicinity of the Tuberculosis Hospital was read and filed.

A communication was read from the state comptroller calling atten- tion to failure of some supervisors to have printed in a newspaper an- nually the supervisors' accounts. This under the penal law is a mis- demenor to omit to perform a duty imposed by law. The police were sent to that their boards may not be liable for neglect to perform an offi- cial duty.

On recommendation of state com- missioners for the 1924-25 year was appropriated $12,000 each month from January 1, 1925, to October 31, 1925, to 47 Elmendorf street and to Clam- pond P. Lewis, 124 St. James street under the state law for relief of the blind.

Petition For Woodstock Road

A petition was read from the town board of Woodstock for construction and improvement of a highway from Danville bridge to town line be- tween Woodstock and Shandaken, a distance of 4 1/2 miles. Filed and ac- cepted.

Ten bills from the Protestant In- dustry board for work performed for District Attorney Jennings were approved and reported. On motion of Supervisor Strong warrants were approved and to the clerk and re- ceived.

Human Nature Answers Appeal

After the Conference session on Thursday afternoon, Bishop Wilson introduced Prof. Edwin Lewis of the Department of Systematic Theology of Drew Theological Seminary, who spoke on "The Facts of Experience." He said there were three attitudes toward the investigation of the place in modern study relative to Chris- tian faith. First, there was unrel- uctant opposition to it; second, there was rather indifferent accept- ance; third, the thought that it would bring to light more possible truths concerning the laws and way of God. The first attitude showed the person to be fearful of the in- security of their faith; the second seemed not to have any great and vital faith; while the third possessed the conviction that the Christian faith is his enough to take care of itself. The only thing that could hurt the cause of human redemption was the insincerity of those who pro- test against it. But just so long as human nature is as it is, so long will the appeal of Christ find a response in the human heart.

Whatever man was meant to be it was already possible for him to become a future end was based on present ability.

The danger spot being oversteered today is man's individuality, inas- much as man is a creature of God and the victim of circumstances. God never created a duplicate human be- ing. In dealing Professor Lewis re- sponded to the subject upon which he was speaking in the evening.

The afternoon session closed with the singing of a hymn and the pro- ceedings of the Association in the hands of the Rev. Dr. Edwin Lewis.

After adjournment a meeting was held in the interest of the work of the Methodist Episcopal church, which was addressed by the Rev. J. Lewis Hammond of St. Andrew's Church, New York and the Rev. Parker W. Howell of Chicago, secretary of the Board of Christian Home and Foreign Missions. Both gave a high tribute to the work being carried on by the women and related matters in the interest of the work pro- ceeding.

Theological discourse in evening.

The Thursday evening session of the conference, which was held in connection with the Conference was presided over by the Rev. Dr. Edwin Lewis and was attended by an audi- ence that occupied every seat in the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church. After prayer and singing and collection, the address of the evening was de- livered by Prof. Edwin Lewis, of the department of systematic theology of Drew Theological Seminary, whose topic was "The Ethic and Cross."

Professor Lewis' address was a clear room lecture, or probably a consolidation of a dozen lectures in one, designed for the aid and guid- ance of preachers. Reviewing various forms and manifestations of doubt, he asserted that the preacher should face and overcome doubt and the sources of doubt and then use the process thus developed in per- suading others. The life, rather than the words and ethical system of Christ, should be stressed. Men know and believe but do not practice. Interest must be quickened by arousing emotion and emotion is aroused by contemplating the life, purpose and sacrifice of the Son of God.

New Material For K. H. S. Nine

The Kingston High School baseball squad which has been having regular practice in the high school gym is now out of doors. Every afternoon, under the careful supervision of Coach Benson, both the varsity and second team can be seen in their early work-outs. Although none of last year's varsity men are back, Coach Benson says that under the circumstances K. H. S. ought to make a good showing in baseball this year.
The candidates out for the varsity team are: E. Rider, A. Schultz, W.
Cranston, W. Hyatt, L. Bruhn, P.
Knight, F. Bruhn, V. Johnson, R.

FIRE PREVENTION.
Question—When a frame building burns down, what is left? Answer—
The chimney alone, because it is built of brick. Chimneys are built of brick because they are fireproof.
Why not construct the whole building of brick, that is Real Fire Prevention. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When you build, use brick exclusively. There may be a slight increase in first cost, but always a large saving in maintenance. Building brick and sand.

Deciding "Met" Series Game at Paterson, April 11

Final Metropolitan League Championship Game at Paterson, Saturday April 11—Brooklyn Had Best Average With 11.8 Points.

At a conference held at President
O'Brien's office this afternoon, arrangements were completed by him, Manager Donlon, representing the Brooklyn Violets and Charlie
Powers, representing the Kingston Colonials, to have the third and final game of the Metropolitan Basketball League championship series decided at the Paterson armory on the evening of Saturday, April 11.

Due to the inability of both teams to get together earlier because of conflicting dates, this date has been set by the league, rather than to keep the result unnecessarily in doubt.

While the delay has not been satisfactory to the league officials it affords Kingston a better opportunity to put its full strength on the floor against Brooklyn, in that Nick Harvey, whose playing was the outstanding feature of the first contest of the series before he was injured, will be in fit condition to take his place in the lineup of the Colonials.

In the final averages for the year, which are just made available, Benny Borgman again leads with a high average mark of 11.8 points per game, compiled in 33 contests, thereby surpassing his high mark of the previous year of 10.7 points per game, compiled in 38 games.
Although Huddy of Trenton is second with 9.0, as he appeared in but one game, McElwain, the youthful star of Yonkers is nominally the holder of second place, with 8.6 points. Carl Husta of Kingston is close on McElwain's heels with 8.5
with Brennan and Banks of Brooklyn immediately following.

"Atmosphere" in Theater

If you want to go to a new amateur playhouse in Hastings, England, you must dress like the actors do on the stage. "The Knight of the Burning Pentle," a play of the King James I period, was recently presented and the entire audience appeared in ancient costumes.

Status of the Hindu

The Hindu is brown, but practically all authorities agree that he is a member of a subdivision of the white or Caucasian race. As far as the United States government is concerned, however, a Hindu is not a white person, the Supreme court having ruled to that effect on February 19, 1923.

Schaefer Seeks New Conquests

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Boston, April 3.—Jake Schaefer, world's 18.2 bailline billiard champion, who hails from Chicago, longs for new conquests.

"I may go after the three-cushion title next year," said Schaefer, who was here battling Willie Hoppe, the man he conquered.

"Yes, I think I could win the crown at the three-cushion style of play," continued Jake. "I would have to give up bailline play for a time. The two games don't mix.
You've got to play one or the other.
Bailline is my favorite game. This is the game at which I am champion."

Then Jake sprang a sensation
"Next to billiards," he said, "I like golf best. I shoot a pretty fair game being able to go around in 85. I'm a bug over golf, like all the rest of the golf players."

Jake said his hands are insured for $50,000, and he never takes a chance with them by playing baseball.

Schaefer, a tall, serious-faced athlete of thirty years, is the son of the late Jake ("Wizard") Schaefer, himself a champion in the old days.
Young Schaefer has been playing billiards, he said, since he was ten years of age.

"Wizard" Schaefer was slipping from the top of the billiard heap
when Willie Hoppe, then the "Boy Wonder," was coming to the front.
Hoppe learned much from watching the elder Schaefer. Now Schaefer's son has won the world's crown from Hoppe. Such is the cycle of billiards.
